Letter from the President

Humanity Refocused

These past few weeks have me thinking about the essence and importance of humanity. When my son, Ashton, was a year old, America experienced what we now commonly refer to as “9/11”. I was visiting my mother in Florida when I saw play out on television what seemed like a scene from a movie from Independence Day which starred Will Smith and Vivica Fox. It wasn’t until my sister called me from a Los Angeles tarmac that what I thought was a movie was an incredulous reality. My life, watching “Bear in the Big Blue House” with Ashton had changed just that quickly.

I remember things afterwards in the days to come being eerily quiet and somber, especially when Ashton and I finally were able to fly back home to Columbus, Ohio. Anyone who has traveled with a one year old toddler knows how stressful traveling can be. However, I recall noticing how everyone was so willing to help each other and make sure each person was taken care of. No one was grimacing about the possibility of having “to maybe sit next to a mother with little people”. What I noticed, for that very brief moment in time, was there was no issue about skin color, ethnicity or perceived social economic station. The focus was solely on taking care of each other.

That was 16 years ago, and Ashton is now a freshman at North Carolina Agricultural and Technical University in Greensboro, NC. Now in this current season, it appeared as though we have lost that loving feeling for our fellow man somewhere along the way. Our media streams show us daily, hourly, grim instances of this same love and compassion I referenced above as being almost nonexistent. Intolerance of each other is the norm these days or so it seems.

However, with the onslaught of Hurricanes Harvey and Irma and the devastation that it has brought in many areas of our landscape, I believe that these devastating events have brought us back to center—caring for each other without regard to those barriers that have normally separated and divided us. Those same barriers don’t seem as important anymore. Or better yet, were they even important in the first place?

As we move toward our new normal things and return to “normal”, let’s make sure that whatever we find our hands to do, that they do something that builds up and restores another person. As The Supremes sang... “Reach out and touch somebody’s hand, make this world a better place if you can”...

Someone has a need.

That’s Phi Rho Love, for real and in color.

LOOKING BACK at Convention 2017

Gateway to Leadership

What would you TELL YOUR SISTERS about National Convention?

"Everyone should attend!"

Check out those ribbons!

“Attending National Convention is an incredible experience that every sister should have at least once. You get to see the sorority from a much larger perspective, and you realize you’re a part of something so much bigger than just your chapter!”

“Such an amazing opportunity to meet new people that you have so much in common with. It was a joy to hang out with my sisters from all over the nation. I was truly inspired to grow as a person and help contribute to the growth of the sorority.”

“It is always a great time getting together with sisters. I wish more alumnae would attend!”

“It was an amazing experience and shows the impact of our sorority across the nation.”

PHI RHO YOUR BOAT

This year at Convention the collegians participated in an activity, Phi Rho Your Boat, where they had to construct a boat out of cardboard, swimming pool noodles, duct tape, and other common household items. The boat had to be able to float in a swimming pool and race to the end and back. Take a look at some of the boats your sisters designed!

Order of the Pyramid INDUCTEES

The Order of the Pyramid is composed of alumnae and honorary members of the Sorority who have given distinguished service to Phi Sigma Rho and/or whose achievements and success have brought honor and prestige to the name of Phi Sigma Rho. For more details and eligibility requirements, see section VIII. Honors, 8.01-11 Order of the Pyramid in the National Policies.

Colony Updates:

University of California, Santa Barbara

Hello Phi Sigma Rho!

We, the UCSB Colony (Chapter as of October 14, 2017), are proud to share our progress toward becoming a Chapter! Over the past year we have undergone induction and membership education, written bylaws, performed service projects, fundraised, and recruited a Beta class to make our dream a reality. This summer we finalized our petition and bylaws, both of which were approved by Convention vote. Through the collaborative effort of 21 girls, we now look forward to establishing a Chapter presence

University at Buffalo

After only a year, the University at Buffalo Colony has made strides to progress themselves through the chapter recognition process. They successfully hosted two fundraisers: the first profiting just over $70 and the second profiting $250. They have also taken part in service events such as volunteering at the local Teacher's Desk and making cards for hospitalized children, in addition to their philanthropic involvement during Relay for Life. On Friday, September 22nd, they will be attending a Light the Night Walk in Buffalo. Socially, they have begun to establish good relations with the other organizations on campus - specifically with the only other engineering Greek organization, Theta Tau.

The latest and greatest achievement of UB's Colony was the successful recruitment and Induction of their Beta class. Out of the 27 PNMs who showed up to the first day of recruitment, 22 went through interviews and 14 were inducted into the Beta class. The large turnout during recruitment only validated the colony's belief that more UB women in engineering would be interested in Phi Sigma Rho. The colony has been establishing a much greater presence on campus and proving that on our campus and sharing our values of friendship, scholarship, and encouragement with sisters to come.

This fall we planned a Big-Little week and I-week for our Colony. As installation approached, we were thankful to the women who could make the trip to Santa Barbara to perform the ceremony. We have received so much advice and encouragement along the way and we look forward to officially joining the sisterhood!

-UCSB, Alpha Xi Chapter ▲

they are dedicated to becoming a chapter and eventually joining the University's Panhellenic Council despite doubts from other Greek organizations.

The path to becoming a chapter is gradually coming to a close as the colony at the University at Buffalo continues to flourish and grow. They are greatly looking forward to their Installation into chapter status in 2018. ▲

Chapter Spotlight:

Arizona State - Alpha Lambda

The Alpha Lambda chapter at Arizona State University just inducted eight amazing new candidates for their Epsilon class!

Last April, the Alpha Lambda chapter was delighted to discover that our founding president, Taylor Coco, was named Chapter President of the Year at Arizona State University. She was honored at the annual Greek Awards, which recognizes leaders in all Fraternity and Sorority Life on campus. This includes over 70 organizations. Taylor was nominated by her sisters for her dedication to building a strong foundation for the Alpha Lambda chapter and for her true embodiment of Phi Sigma Rho's values. She started Phi Rho at ASU as an interest group on October 2, 2014, and led us all the way to our official installment on September 10, 2016. She did not let any obstacles prevent her from doing her best for her sisters, and she remains an incredibly proud active member of Phi Sigma Rho despite her busy schedule. She is currently serving on ASU's Panhellenic Council as the Vice President of Member Development and is in charge of the annual PowHER conference, a women's leadership conference on campus featuring successful women speakers. Needless to say, Taylor has a bright future ahead of her, and her sisters will forever be grateful for her fearless leadership and unwavering loyalty! ▲

We are excited to guide these ladies through new member education and show them the positive impact that Phi Rho can make on their lives!

Currently, Elizabeth is the ASCE Orange County Branch President-Elect, Programs Chair for the ASCE Committee on Younger Members, Region 9 Member for the ASCE State Government Relations Committee, and serves on the ASCE Task Committee on New Revenue. ▲

Active Spotlights:

Emily Ahearn

Pittsburgh-Zeta

Major: Industrial Engineering

Who is your role model and why?

My role model is my older sister, Ashlyn. She handles every situation with grace and positivity, which are two things that I believe everyone could use a little bit more of in life. She has taught me so much about life through the years and continues to be my person each and every day.

Do you have any helpful hints for international travel?

The biggest piece of advice I can give for international travel is to not hold back. Dive deep into the culture, the people, the food (especially the food), and everything else there is to experience. Experiencing other cultures is such a privilege and an honor. Get out and explore while you have the time!

Tell me about your experience abroad.

I studied abroad in Florence, Italy this past May for five weeks, and it was the best five weeks of my life. I fell in love with the city, the food, the wine, and the art. My favorite pizza place was "Gusta Pizza." I highly recommend going there if you ever get the chance! (Guy Fieri would also agree.)

Samantha Morin

Pittsburgh-Zeta

Major: Industrial Engineering

Tell me about your experience abroad.

This past summer Emily Ahearn and I got to experience the wonders of Italy for 5 weeks through Pitt's Engineering of the Renaissance Program in Florence, Italy. We earned 6 credits and had the time of our lives while taking in the rich culture of Florence, and other parts of Italy on the weekends. My personal favorite place we visited was the island of Capri, where I got to see the most beautiful views and bluest water I could imagine. The food was incredible, the wine was even more incredible, and seeing the art and history associated with the tuscan region was more than I could have ever hoped.

Did you learn any tips for future international travel?

Plan ahead where you want to go. If you are visiting a place where you don't have time to look up the best sites, try a tour group. Look into discounted tickets on the internet for attractions. Make color copies of your passport to carry around and have someone back in the US hold on to.

Favorite Phi Rho Memory:

Every semester we have our banquet where the Historian typically puts together a slideshow of the semester's photos from all of our events. This always gets me all emotional in reminding myself what a big part of my life is Phi Rho and how many of my college memories are attributed to it. Top moments are likely at our retreats, where I can be surrounded by my sisters and try to push out other stresses in my life to focus on them and have a great time together.

Favorite Quote:

"Don't take life too seriously, nobody gets out alive anyway." - Van Wilder

Your Happy Place:

My grandparent's cottage on Lake Webster in New Hampshire. It's the most beautiful place and I have been going there my whole life every summer.

Colony Educator Spotlight:

Renee Lueke

Pittsburgh-Zeta

Major: B.S. Chemical Engineering

Current Job: Manufacturing Engineer at Zodiac Aerospace

What do you like most about being Colony Educators?

Participating in the growth of a new chapter, helping to bring Phi Rho to my home city, and seeing a group of young women take not only an interest in joining Phi Rho, but taking the first steps needed to bring it to their campus and setting the colony up to be sustained as a chapter.

What made you want to get involved with PSR after graduation?

Being a part of Phi Rho during college had more impact than I realized at the time, and I missed it after graduation. Being from the Pitt chapter, but living in Buffalo I couldn't easily participate in alumna events, and was excited to have the opportunity to help bring Phi Rho to NY.

How do you handle criticism?

I'd like to say I handle it well, but it is hard not to take personally sometimes. I think the only way to be positive when receiving criticism is to know how to positively GIVE criticism. Understanding the constructive way to give it can help to turn it to a positive message for yourself when you are on the receiving end. If people care enough to point out an improvement opportunity, that usually means they care enough to want you to overcome it and succeed.

How do you balance a career with motherhood?

Since I am due in December, this one will be a challenge! I am nervous about the need/want to work late and the need to pick the baby up from day care. I am not giving up my board member position on Buffalo's chapter of ASM, and am hoping I won't get too tired to remake that decision. I'm also not dropping out of grad school, and am hoping I can finish my degree (1 year left) before being a mom becomes too demanding. I want to set the example to my kid of not giving up on your goals. We are doing day care 3 days a week, and then my husband is staying home the other 2 days. He is a musician with a part time retail job during the day, so he needs to have nights available for his shows, whereas I need days available for my job. In theory, we hope it will work out! ▲

VP of Strategy

Becky is a member of the Alpha Beta chapter at the University of Cincinnati. She served as the Vice President of Administration, Director of Scholarship, and President. Becky graduated in 2015 with a bachelor's degree in Chemical Engineering and an MBA, and is in the Commercial Development Program at Dow Chemical in Midland, Michigan. In her free time, she loves to travel, ski, and fuse glass into plates and penguin ornaments.

Rosalie Krob

Purdue-Alpha
Treasurer

Rosalie Krob (formerly Geeck) was initiated into the Alpha Epsilon class at Purdue University - Alpha Chapter in the spring of 2009. Rosie graduated with a BS and MS degree in Aeronautical and Astronautical Engineering in May of 2012 and 2013, respectively. She currently works as a Project Engineer for Aerojet Rocketdyne, supporting the descent and landing engines on the Mars 2020 mission. While an active, she served as Director of Scholastic Development and Director of Internal Relations. She has been a Foundation volunteer since January 2015.

Lexi Heironimus

Wright State-Alpha Zeta
Secretary

Lexi was initiated into the Alpha Zeta chapter in 2013 as a member of the Beta class. She held many positions including the Vice-president of Programming, Philanthropy chair, and Alumnae Relations. She graduated with her Bachelors in biomedical engineering in April 2016 and is continuing her education pursuing a Masters in biomedical engineering. Currently employed as a research assistant, she hopes after getting her professional engineering license that she may work for an engineering consulting firm or conduct research with medical imaging technology.

Mary McWilliams

Ohio State-Beta
Ex-Officio

A member of the inaugural Phi Sigma Rho class at Ohio State University, Ms. McWilliams completed her undergraduate degree (B.S. MET) in 1990, received her MBA in 1997 and received her certificate in program and project management in 2009. Currently, Ms. McWilliams is employed as a lead engineer for the DLA Land and Maritime in Columbus, Ohio, where she is responsible for fiber optic specifications for the Department of Defense and its Agencies. She is currently working as a Lean Six Sigma Black Belt at DLA Land and Maritime having obtained her Black Belt in 2009. ▲

Light the Night with the Phi Sigma Rho Foundation

Phi Sigma Rho began participating in Light the Night walks in 2015 to support the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society as a part of our national philanthropic efforts. In the first 2 years we a raised a total of $47,2589. This was in part due to the many personal connections to leukemia and lymphoma awareness. From remembering those we have lost, to honoring survivors and supporting current patients, the sisters of Phi Sigma Rho are proud to support this cause.

For the third year in a row, Phi Rho chapters are once again participating in Light the Night Walks across the country. This year we increased our fundraising goal to $25,000 and not only did we meet our goal, but we recently passed $30,000! Most walks have already occurred but it is not too late to donate. If you would like to support this cause, visit <http://pages.lightthenight.org/2017/phisigmarhofoundation> to find a chapter or individual to support.

Thank you to all who have supported this cause. The Phi Sigma Rho Foundation is looking forward to another great philanthropy campaign!

2017 Foundation Scholarship Winners

Each year at National Conference or Convention, the Foundation awards three $1,000 scholarships to deserving Phi Rhos. This year, the scholarships were awarded to Meredith Jones from the University of Louisville, Miranda Vargas from the University of Toledo, and Madison Farrell from Michigan State University. See what they had to say, below!

Merit Scholarship

Meredith Jones
Louisville-Alpha Gamma

“This sorority has not only molded me into a capable leader and scholar but also continually inspires, encourages, and empowers me. With the support of my sisters I have successfully become the first member of my family to graduate college.”

Scholarship applications can be found at phisigmarhofoundation.org/scholarships and will be due by March 1, 2018. ▲

Sarah Rogers McClure Memorial Scholarship

Miranda Vargas
Toledo-Delta

“Sarah Rogers McClure’s ideals are those I strive to live up to everyday as I continue my journey as a sister of Phi Sigma Rho, and I hope to make her memory proud. Receiving this scholarship means so much to me not only in being honored as sister, but it will aid me in continuing my academic endeavors.”

Leadership Scholarship

Madison Farrell
Michigan State-Alpha Delta

“Throughout the course of my academic career I have had the honor of being a part of a multitude of student organizations, clubs, bands, and extracurricular activities. I can say with certainty though that none of them have had a greater impact on me than Phi Sigma Rho. The opportunities I’ve been given as a member coupled with the consistent guidance and motivation from the sisters in my chapter have made me the leader I am today.”

Chapter Survey Responses

What's your favorite way to promote sisterhood?

I just started a Spirit committee where people signed up to help nominate a sister each week who gets a card and small gift to show them the sisterhood is there for them in times when they need it most.

Ali Meagher, UCSD-Chi

We like to promote sisterhood by writing Sweet things (nice messages to each sister), having sisterhood hangouts, and recognizing sisters for exemplifying our values during chapter meetings.

Emily Fitzpatrick, Toledo-Delta

What's your favorite way to promote scholarship?

Our Academic Chair hosts study events for girls to study together. We also have Scholastic Sister of the Month where girls are nominated for their study habits and they win a prize.

Rebekah Taylor, Louisville-Alpha Gamma

We have scholarship teams where good grades, applying to jobs, going to office hours, doing extra study hours, etc. can earn you points and attack other team's points and the winning team gets gift cards at the end of the semester.

Lindsay McCalmont, Ohio State-Beta

What's your favorite way to promote service?

Finding new and creative ways for our sisters to give back (i.e. the puppy kissing booth we're doing this year). Also, seeing how our service from the past has impacted people or what our service for this year could do in the community.

Madison Farrell, Michigan State-Alpha Delta

This week's #PearlofWisdomPSR is from Victoria from the Alpha Theta Chapter. Victoria's advice for new grads is to just keep swimming!

DON'T GET DISCOURAGED IF YOU CAN'T FIND A JOB AT FIRST - IT'S TOUGH COMPETITION OUT THERE. JUST KEEP PRACTICING AND KEEP APPLYING.

Thank you Rashmi Khanna Drummond for the picture. This is the University Bookstore at Purdue. When we started the sorority we were excited every time we had an item that had our letters on it that wasn't hand drawn or custom ordered. The first time we saw stuff with our letters in "stock" we were super excited. To have our sorority with its own display is amazingly satisfying - I can't really even describe it. Thank you to all the women who came after us and have made Phi Sigma Rho the success it is today. I can't wait to see where it is going next!

The locations of the 2018 National Conference and 2019 National Convention have been announced!

The 2018 National Conference will be hosted by the Alpha Chapter at Purdue University.

The 2019 National Convention will be held in Scottsdale, Arizona and we will be celebrating Phi Sigma Rho's 35th birthday!

Webinars Upcoming Schedule

Date: Topic (Tentative)

November: Phi Rhos Abroad - a discussion on working abroad

December: Interview Prep - alumnae panel discussion on interview preparation and techniques

January: National Council Who's Who and What They Do - description of NC positions from current members
Personal Finance - budgeting and beyond with our VP of Finance

February: LEAP 101 - learn about LEAP and how to get certified

March: Networking - growing and keeping your network

April: How to Toot your Own Horn - how to sell yourself without bragging

May: Influencing without Authority - how to get things done as an indirect (rather than direct) leader

June: Multi-Generations in the Workplace - a case study on the evolving workforce and team dynamics

All webinars are tentatively scheduled for 9:00PM EST/6:00PM PST. Any changes to this schedule will be reflected on the event invitation and announcement. See the Phi Sigma Rho National Sorority Facebook Events page for details. For more information, please contact leadershipdirector@phisigmarho.org.

Volunteers Needed

CONFERENCE AND CONVENTION PLANNING COMMITTEE

Do you want to help plan the 2018 National Conference at Purdue University, 2019 National Convention in Scottsdale, Arizona, or both?

The VP of Programming is looking for 4-5 volunteers who would like to be on the planning committee. The purpose of this committee is to help with the programming at conference and convention, specifically to brainstorm different topics, various speakers, and LEAP sessions that will be offered. The main difference between conference and convention is that the conference is focused on programming for actives, while convention serves both actives and alumnae. If you are interested in joining the Conference & Convention Planning Committee, please contact the Vice President of Programming, Kathleen Vijawergiya, at VPofProgramming@phisigmarho.org. The immediate need is for the 2018 conference.

HISTORICAL COMMITTEE

Do you want to learn more about the history of Phi Sigma Rho and pass that knowledge on to future generations of Phi Rhos?

The sorority is in search of volunteers to join the Historical Committee!

For more information or to join, please contact the Historian, Elishka Jepson, at historian@phisigmarho.org.

Alumnae Dues

Active Alumna - $35 Annually

Being an Active Alumna means volunteering to support the sisterhood in its advancement and growth by paying alumnae dues. These voluntary alumnae dues directly support our national expansion efforts and increased programming via webinars and at National Conferences/Conventions.

Phi Sigma Rho would like to especially thank the following alumnae sisters for their gracious support and for choosing to be Lifetime Active Alumnae. Their gracious support helps sustain programming for both our undergraduate and alumnae members.

Lifetime Active Alumnae - $600

As part of the revamped dues program that was introduced earlier in 2017, all alumnae who become lifetime members will receive this exclusive piece of Phi Sigma Rho jewelry as a token of appreciation.
