MESSAGE FROM THE PRCS PRESIDENT

Over the next five years, the Palau Red Cross Society will build upon the strong foundation established in recent years, expanding its humanitarian impact, strengthening community resilience, and enhancing its capacity to serve vulnerable people across Palau. As communities continue facing evolving challenges ranging from climate-related emergencies to public health concerns and social vulnerabilities, PRCS remains committed to building a more prepared, resilient, and connected Palau.

This Strategic Plan 2026–2030 reflects not only our priorities, but also our ambition to strengthen how we serve communities across the country. We are proud of the progress made through the dedication of our volunteers, staff, members, and partners, and we are equally excited about the opportunities ahead. PRCS will continue investing in community resilience, volunteer development, preparedness, inclusion, public engagement, and stronger institutional systems that support effective humanitarian action.

As the auxiliary to the government in humanitarian services, PRCS recognizes the importance of collaboration, accountability, and adaptability in a rapidly changing environment. The organization is preparing for the future by strengthening coordination, improving accessibility of services, expanding outreach and communications, and enhancing our capacity to respond to emergencies and community needs with efficiency and compassion.

This strategic period represents an opportunity to modernize, strengthen partnerships, and further position PRCS as a trusted humanitarian organization that communities can rely on. Guided by the Fundamental Principles of the International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement, we remain committed to serving humanity with dignity, neutrality, and respect for all.

The Governing Board, Palau Red Cross Society

This plan reflects PRCS's commitment to strengthening humanitarian services, improving operational systems, and expanding community-centered approaches that are responsive to Palau's evolving needs.

As humanitarian challenges become increasingly complex, PRCS recognizes the importance of preparedness, innovation, and sustainable systems. The organization is entering this strategic period with a strong focus on enhancing community resilience, strengthening health and safety initiatives, expanding volunteer and youth engagement, improving communications and digital systems, and building more effective coordination and service delivery mechanisms through partnerships.

PRCS is also committed to strengthening accountability, accessibility, and inclusion across all programs and operations. Through improved planning, monitoring, communications, and institutional capacity, the organization aims to deliver more efficient, data-informed, and community-driven humanitarian action throughout Palau.

The next five years present an important opportunity for PRCS to build upon existing strengths while modernizing systems and expanding partnerships that support long-term sustainability and impact. With the continued support of volunteers, staff, communities, government, and partners, PRCS is prepared to strengthen its humanitarian leadership and further its mission of serving vulnerable people throughout Palau.

OUR NATIONAL SOCIETY

The Palau Red Cross Society (PRCS) is the national humanitarian organization of the Republic of Palau and a member of the International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement. Established by the Palau National Congress through House Joint Resolution 5-24-3 on 31 July 1997, PRCS was recognized by the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) on 30 September 1997 and admitted to the International Federation of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies (IFRC) on 20 November 1997.

As an auxiliary to the public authorities in the humanitarian field, PRCS works to serve the most vulnerable, alleviate human suffering and promote human dignity and peace. The Society provides humanitarian services that strengthen the resilience, health, safety, and well-being of communities throughout Palau guided by the Fundamental Principles of Humanity, Impartiality, Neutrality, Independence, Voluntary Service, Unity, and Universality.

Through its headquarters in Koror and a dedicated network of volunteers, members, staff, and partners, PRCS delivers programs and services that support disaster preparedness and response, community health and first aid, blood services, youth engagement, volunteer development, and community resilience. The Society works closely with government agencies, community leaders, schools, businesses, and international partners to ensure that humanitarian assistance reaches those who need it most.

As Palau continues to face evolving challenges including climate change, natural hazards, public health risks, and social vulnerabilities, PRCS remains committed to strengthening its humanitarian role and expanding its impact. Through this Strategic Plan 2026–2030, the Society seeks to build stronger communities, enhance preparedness and resilience, strengthen organizational capacity, and ensure that people across Palau have access to trusted humanitarian support when they need it most.

VISION

To be the leading humanitarian organization in Palau that is inclusive, sustainable, effective, and that meets the needs of the community.

MISSION

To promote safe, healthy, and resilient Palauan communities.

OUR CENTER OF GRAVITY

The Palau Red Cross Society's (PRCS) center of gravity is community-based humanitarian preparedness and response, strengthening resilience, health, and safety before, during, and after emergencies. PRCS serves individuals and communities made vulnerable by economic hardship, age, disability, geographic isolation, and limited access to essential services. Its priority groups include remote and outer island communities, older and home-bound individuals, persons with disabilities, low-income households, and communities affected by health and natural emergencies.

PRCS plays a critical role in strengthening existing coping mechanisms through disaster preparedness, emergency response, blood donor recruitment, first aid training, and community resilience programs. By working closely with communities across all 16 states, PRCS helps vulnerable populations anticipate, withstand, and recover from crisis while promoting safer, healthier, and more resilient communities throughout Palau.

OUR OPERATING ENVIRONMENT

PRCS operates in a rapidly changing environment shaped by climate change, public health risks, economic pressures, technological advancements, and evolving community needs. Increasing disaster risks, rising costs, and limited resources create challenges for humanitarian organizations across the Pacific, including Palau.

At the same time, PRCS benefits from strong community values, a culture of volunteerism, supportive partnerships, and growing awareness of the importance of preparedness and resilience. Advances in communications and technology also present new opportunities to improve service delivery, community engagement, and emergency response.

Acknowledging and understanding these opportunities and challenges enable PRCS to make informed decisions, strengthen its capacity, and position itself to meet the humanitarian needs of Palau over the next five years.
