01.

Moving into June we are starting something new - theCONCEPT. - a magazine with a special conceptual approach to photography.

In the first summer issue we have selected highlights from our featured artists. We also cover the theme of the colour of the year and the trend to its implementation in photography and take a look at the most expensive photographs ever sold. Travel to Paris to find various artworks captured in this spectacular city, to get to the black and white photography which engages with timeless issues. Finally, we take you to the exhibition of the young talent Ánibal Cáceres in Monochrome Hub Gallery in Valencia, Spain.

This is our promising start to expect the unexpected.

COLOR OF THE YEAR 2020

PANTONE® 19-4052 Classic Blue

Martin Hristov - Humpback Whales-II-Tonga, 2018, Limited Edition of 25, Signed, Archival Print
Mounted Under Acrylic Glass, Item No. MH-C002, Size: 100x150 cm - €1350

Martin Hristov is an architect by profession. His greatest passions are photography and diving. He has submerged his camera in all the oceans and makes breathtaking shots from the micro underwater world to big and impressive whales and mantas. Underwater photography is his way of telling, describing without words the beauty of marine underwater excellence. We present the author with his series of humpback whales from Tonga.

This year, the trend spotters at the Pantone Color Institute have chosen PANTONE 19-4052: Classic Blue as a Colour of the Year 2020. From fashion and beauty trends to product and interior designers it seems about each industry takes note of the colour estimate from the world's most powerful colour system.

A timeless and enduring blue hue, PANTONE 19-4052 Classic Blue is elegant in its simplicity. The indigo hue brings to mind both the constant and the classic, the sky at dusk, an impeccably tailored suit, serene waters, or a bowl of perfectly ripe blueberries. Classic Blue, is a welcome refuge for our uncertain, often disconnected era. In a time where public faith in institutions, advertising, and the future is increasingly challenged, many desire a return to trust, authenticity, and empathy. The blue hues, long related to peace, calm, and the daylight sky, feel strong and reliable. It is this constancy and comfort that Classic Blue offers us.

We selected artworks from our collections of limited and open editions and wall decor art that we feel best to embody the spirit of the Color of the Year. Get inspired and choose the best one for your favourite place.

Million Photographs and Millions for Photographs

Most of us are aware that paintings can cost tens, even hundreds of millions of dollars, but the art photography can be just as collectable and demand similar prices at auction. Collectors nowadays pay a lot of money to own a piece of a photograph.

As one of the more “recent” art forms, photography’s popularity in the art market has grown and grown, with the highest amount paid for a photograph sticking at $838,000 in 1999 until being bumped off the top spot 4 years later with a sale of $922,488, and then again 2 years later when the first million-dollar photograph was sold for $1,248,000. And then in 2014 when the most expensive photo in history hit an impressive $6.5 million.

Ever since the auction houses Sotheby’s, Christie’s and Phillips have vied for the title of ‘the most expensive photograph’ as photography’s popularity continues to grow as a smart investment.

The most expensive photograph ever sold is a contentious topic. So let us take you through our selection of the high-priced photographs in the world.

Peter Lik, Phantom - ($6,500,000)

Peter Lik took this image in the area known as Antelope Canyon in Arizona, US.
The black and white image sold in 2014 for a whopping $6,500,000.

Andreas Gursky, Rhein II ($4,338,500)

This image of the Lower Rhine river was taken by Andreas Gursky. It was the second of a set of six taken by Gursky depicting the Rhine. It is a chromogenic colour print that sold for $4,338,500 in 2011.

Cindy Sherman, Untitled Film Still 48 ($2,965,000)

Untitled Film Still #48 by Cindy Sherman depicts a woman standing on the side of a road in a curve with a suitcase sitting beside her. The picture is a chromogenic colour print and was sold for $2,965,000 in May of 2015.

Where Fashion meets Art

The Italian fashion brand Balossa put the art photography as the main focus for their collection SS 2020. Inspired from the urban style Balossa selected "Streets of Valencia" by Ivailo S.Álvarez - a black and white photograph from the project "E#Motion Street", which is included in MONOCHROME HUB portfolio.

Meet the founder and designer of Balossa - Indra Kaffemanaite who tell us more about the collaboration between her and the photographer. Learn about the feelings, emotions and inspirations which she involves into her white shirts.

Indra Kaffemanaite

Founder and designer of BALOSSA-White Shirt

- Could you tell us a few words about your brand "Balossa"?

The innovation of the white shirt is an ever-evolving project of Balossa. The transformation and evolutionary process of dissecting the male shirt, the idea of Made in Italy - not only through the material - but above all through the value of originality, exclusivity, non-repetitive, perfect asymmetry, where male and female meet and collide. For lengths and contrasts, shapes and proportions, innovation and experimentation, attention to detail. The personalization of the Balossa brand and the transfer to the Balossa culture to every single garment. All that is Balossa.

"In E#MOTION you will look in a world beyond the colour. These subtle abstractions have the power to convey even more emotion than a full-blown image, small deviations and blurry borders give the viewer a new way of perceiving the world - simpler, more powerful."

SOLOVKI, 2019

by Juan Manuel Castro Prieto, Rafael Trapiello (photographers) and Antonio Muñoz Molina

Hand-signed by the authors

R. Trapiello Castro Prieto

Solovki is the main island of the Island (Russia), located in the middle of the White Sea, known as such because it is frozen over for nearly half the year. Solovki was the mother Gulag, the terrible Soviet penitentiary system of forced labor camps. Active from 1924 to 1939, it served as a model for all the subsequent prisons.

Places have memory, and while one could only hope to bury this tragic past, the memory is imprinted in the lives of its inhabitants; it is impossible to escape it. The fact that Solovki is an island in the middle of the White Sea accentuates the memory of the prison in the collective sub-conscience.

Juan Manuel Castro Prieto and Rafael Trapiello have explored this territory observing the relationship between the hell and paradise. Using a narrative strategy alike to poetry, all the images have an unsettling tension that exists between the beauty and spirituality of the place and the terrible past that occurred on these islands.

The photographs in this book were taken during two trips - the first in August 2015 and the Second in April 2016. All the inhabitants of Solovki shown in the photos, opened their doors to the photographers which made this book possible.

SOLOVKI - 2019, Photo Book, Signed, ISBN-978-84-945846-1-9, Size: 22x28 cm, 192 pages - €30

*All signatures are hand-signed by the author/publisher in ink at one of our author's events. Demand for some titles can be high.

CONTRASTREET

This exhibition is the result of the photographer's steps and his vision of the street through different cities in Spain. The author, during his tour, provides images in these mundane places in different corners finding the extraordinary, moments that usually go unnoticed in our daily habit. Playing with the light effects that the streets offer, contrasting them with the shadows that stand out and the colours of the environment which projecting the sunlight. In his photographs, we find the protagonists - an ordinary people travelling indifferently to their objective, submerged in their day-to-day life, unaware of the path they travel by heart, going unnoticed.

Aníbal Cáceres - El Último Día-2018, Limited Edition of 100, Archival Print
Item No. ACV-CONTRA0001, Size: 60x80 cm - €300

Aníbal Cáceres known as 'DANG3R', born in 1991, is a photographer from Sanlúcar de Barrameda (Cádiz). His first steps in photography were almost 10 years ago when with his scholarship, he had the opportunity to get a camera and start training himself.

The passion for photography made him embark towards different places in search of new inspirations. His first destination was the city of Granada. Years later, after different destinations and occurrences, finally placed Valencia as a current residence and a large showcase full of places to photograph.

He lives with photography as if it is a parallel world, where he plays and expresses his personal vision of the surroundings. Strolling through the city he finds new corners and discovers the extraordinary of the ordinary places. The streets, its people and all the elements that compose them are the blank canvas of the young photographer who paints the city with different shades of natural light.
