ISE WATERFORD

Our Tycor Business Park Campus is situated in a quiet residential area of Waterford, yet it remains close to the heart of the city. Lisduggan Shopping Centre is just 10 minutes away, offering a supermarket and several cafés. Only a 15-minute walk south of the school brings you to the city centre, where students can enjoy the Book Centre—a former theatre now transformed into a bookshop and café—along with local shops, bars, and restaurants.

Most students choose to walk or cycle to the school thanks to its central location. However, it is also well served by local buses, with a stop just 50 metres from the campus.

STUDENT FEEDBACK

At ISE, we value our students' feedback, which helps us improve our services. We ask for feedback in several ways:

MEETINGS WITH THE ACADEMIC MANAGER

Students have the opportunity to give feedback on ISE's programmes directly to the Academic Manager.

After the meeting, the Academic Manager will work on resolving the issues raised and will write a report addressing every point brought up by the students. The Academic Office operates an open-door policy, so students can approach a member of the academic management team at any time.

TUTORIALS

In the one-to-one tutorial sessions with their teacher, students have yet another opportunity to make their voices heard: they can inform their teacher directly about what is working for them, what they are struggling with, and what they would like to focus on more in class.

STUDENT FEEDBACK FORMS

New students (in week 1), all students (at any time) & finished students (at the end of their course).

At induction, new students are given a feedback form to complete at the end of their first week at ISE. This allows us to check if our new students are happy with their class, their level, the amount of support and information they have received, as well as their accommodation. If anyone is experiencing difficulties, we can offer immediate help and support where needed.

We also invite our students to share their feedback at any time during their course using the General Feedback form. This helps us monitor student satisfaction and respond to any issues as quickly as possible.

Finally, when students complete their course, we ask for their feedback so we can continue to improve our programmes and services, taking our students' suggestions on board.

ISE CONTINUOUS LEVEL & PROGRESS ASSESSMENT

1 STEP ONLINE PLACEMENT TEST

Prior to the start of your classes, your level will be assessed as per the CEFR (the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages). This assessment consists of an online, multiple-choice written test, assessing your reading comprehension, vocabulary and grammatical knowledge; followed by a speaking test to assess your speaking and listening skills. Our rigorous placement testing procedure ensures that students are placed in the correct level at the start of their course.

2 STEP PROGRESS TESTS

As part of our continuous assessment programme, students take a progress test every Friday. Test results are saved on the school system, and students are able to keep track of their own progress online. The test is followed by a revision session, giving students the opportunity to get feedback on their answers as well as additional error correction, explanation and reinforcement.

3 STEP LEVEL CHANGES

Based primarily on teacher recommendations, level changes are overseen by ISE's academic management team. Students also have the option of taking a level test to assess if they are ready to progress to the next level.

4 STEP TUTORIALS

Tutorials are an opportunity for our students to self-reflect on their progress so far and interact with their teacher on a one-to-one basis about how they are getting on. During the tutorial sessions, teachers will assess each student's progress and development in relation to the overall course learning outcomes and make suggestions on how they can improve.

Destination...here

- 1 A trip that doesn't involve packing for two weeks or finding your passport may not seem like the highlight of your travel agenda, but it can be just as rewarding. Test about simple trips, not going abroad
- I live in Toronto, Canada's largest city and one of its most popular tourist destinations. And yet, when I'm looking for a way to spend my time off, more often than not I head out of the city. ?? Pleasing? Check later
- 2 This year I'm determined to change that. Why is it I always feel the need to travel hundreds or thousands of miles to explore when I have so much to learn on my doorstep? ?? Why? a go?
- 3 Want to try it too? Here are five tips to get about seeing your city through new eyes. ?? to start

1 Take a historical tour.

Sure, you can tell a tourist the names of the buildings or tourist spots in your hometown, but do you know their history? Those hop-on, hop-off bus tours might be meant for tourists, but they're a great way to improve your local history knowledge. Plus, taking note of what visitors find interesting can be fascinating, allowing you to see what might at first seem uninteresting in a whole new light. If there is no tourist bus, try joining a free walking tour. It's a great way of not only discovering things you didn't know about your city, but also meeting new people.

2 Get a room.

Waking up in a hotel or bed and breakfast is a tried-and-tested way to set the mood for exploring. If you live in a suburb, head into the city. If you live in the city, consider spending a weekend getting to know the nearest town. The added excitement of being away from home for the night will only add to the day's fun.

3 Set a date.

There are places I pass on a regular basis in Toronto. Every time, I promise myself that one day I'll check them out. Take it from me: it will never happen without a plan. So pull out your calendar, set a date and keep it.

4 Act like a tourist.

I'm not suggesting you stand in the middle of the street taking selfies, while the locals angrily try to get past, but do pop into the tourist information centre, look out for upcoming events and follow local websites to find out what's on.

5 Take something small and make it bigger.

Your daily wander around the block could turn into a walk around a new neighbourhood. Friday pizza night at home? Why not make it a mission to test out the newest pizzeria in town? You'll be surprised how simple adjustments to your everyday routines can broaden your experiences.

20 Discovering hidden places around you and being a tourist in your own city can not only be fun, but bearing in mind how much travelling can contribute to the climate emergency, it can also help save the planet. So, when planning your next holiday, start first by exploring your hometown!

4D Understanding turn-taking styles

LESSON GOALS

- Understand the main turn-taking styles
- Adapt your style to communicate more effectively
- Participate and invite others to participate in a group discussion

SPEAKING

- 1 Work in pairs. Read the situations and discuss the questions (1–3).
- You're at a café with a friend you haven't seen for many years. There are pauses in between questions and answers from you and your friend.
 - You're talking to your friends. You ask questions to invite each other to speak. You speak fairly fast but rarely interrupt each other.
 - You're with some friends. They're speaking really fast. You're trying to participate, but they are interrupting each other and speaking loudly.
- Who do you have similar styles of conversations with?
 - In which type of situations are you the most and the least comfortable? Why?
 - What kinds of people would find quieter conversations, like in the first scenario, more difficult? Who might find noisier conversations difficult?

LISTENING

- 2 LISTEN Listen to three conversations. Match them with the situations in Exercise 1. Which group ...
- has the most similar conversation style to the one you normally use?
 - would you enjoy participating in the most?
- 3 ANALYSE Look at the infographic on page 55. Then listen again and match the conversations with the three turn-taking styles.
- 4 Work in pairs. Discuss the questions.
- What do you know about the sports in the infographic?
 - How are the three turn-taking styles similar to bowling, basketball and rugby?
 - Which style is the most similar to your own?
 - Does your style sometimes change, depending on the situation?

ACADEMIC LEARNER PROTECTION POLICY

Approved by ILEP (Interim list of eligible programmes) and in effect since 17th September 2021

It is a requirement of ILEP for recruitment of International students onto English language courses of 25 weeks and over in duration that the schools have an approved protection for enrolled learners (PEL) scheme in place. Working closely with the Department of Justice, ELE Ireland (English Language Education Ireland) has developed and received approval from ILEP for the ELE Ireland Academic Learner Protection Scheme.

The ELE Ireland Academic Learner Protection Scheme is robust, fit for purpose and is currently FREE.

One of the key benefits of the scheme is that it has been developed specifically so as not to disadvantage students in any way or to add additional financial costs to the study experience. Students enrolled in any of the ELE Ireland member schools have access to this academic protection, which ensures that their course of study can be completed in the unlikely event of a PEL event happening in one of the member schools. Should such a PEL event occur, the ELE Ireland PEL Scheme covers the period from when a student begins their programme to the time the student has completed the programme, and the end-of-programme exams.
