

Citing and Referencing: APA (6th Edition) Referencing Style

A guide to the APA 6th ed. Referencing Style

APA Mean?

You think to yourself ... what does that mean, why do I have to do it and how do I do it!?”

APA is one of many referencing styles used in academic writing. APA stands for American Psychological Association. The Association outlines the style in the Publication manual of the American Psychological Association [APA] (6th ed.).

APA Style Requires Following Elements:

1. In-Text References

- Located in the text of the paper
- Tells the reader what information was borrowed and where it came from

2. A List of References

- Located at the end of the paper
- Tells the reader what sources were used to write the paper and provides complete information about the sources

Note: The in-text references and list of references work together to give complete credit to the sources that are used in writing the paper. The in-text reference in the paper should correspond with the starting of the citation in the list of references.

Structure a Paper in APA Style

1. Use standard 8.5 x 11 inch (letter size) good quality white paper
2. Use 12-pt Times New Roman font.
3. Double space lines throughout the paper. Exceptions: Triple or quadruple spacing can be done around equations. Single or one-and-a-half spacing can be done in tables or figures.
4. Use a 1 inch (2.54 cm) margin on all sides of each page—left, right, top, and bottom.
5. Text appears on one side of the paper—the reverse side is blank.
6. Left justify your margins, meaning the left margin will be flush to the left side of the page and the right margin will be uneven.
7. Indent the first line of every paragraph five to seven spaces or a standard —Tabl key space (½ inch).
8. Use 2 spaces after a sentence period in your essay and 1 space after commas, colons, and semicolons.
9. Order of the paper (not all of these elements are a necessary part of every paper):
 - i. Title page
 - ii. Abstract
 - iii. Text
 - iv. References
 - v. Footnotes
 - vi. Tables
 - vii. Figures
 - viii. Appendices
10. Page Numbering: The number is in the top right corner (1 inch from right and ½ inch from the top page edges).
11. Running Head: A running head will appear at the top of every page. It is flush against the left-hand margin (1 inch) and ½ inch from the top of the page. The running head is an abbreviated form of the title that is no longer than 50 characters in length.
12. Headings: Headings are not required, but they may be useful for the purpose of displaying hierarchal organization in your paper. There are a total of five heading styles. The following outlines the format for the first three levels of headings.
 - 1st level-Bold, Centered, Uppercase and Lowercase Heading
 - 2nd level-Bold, Flush Left, Uppercase and Lowercase Heading
 - 3rd level-Indented, bold, sentence case paragraph heading ending with a period
13. Visuals may include graphs, photographs, tables, etc. Clearly label each visual with a title that concisely describes its subject.
14. Formatting titles or publications mentioned in your paper:
 - ITALICIZE: titles of books, plays, pamphlets, newspapers, magazines, journals, films, compact discs, and paintings.
 - PLACE QUOTATION MARKS AROUND: titles of articles, essays, short stories, poems, chapters of books, and songs.
 - CAPITALIZE: All major words in the title

APA STYLE

APA style requires brief references in the text of the paper and complete reference information at the end of the paper. Below are some general guidelines:

In-Text References	References
An in-text reference is generally given in one of two ways. For rephrased information (information put into your own words): <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • use author's surname followed immediately by the copyright year in brackets within the sentence OR <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • provide the author's surname and copyright year in brackets at the end of the sentence before the period 	The list of sources is titled "References" and is located at the end of the paper on a new page. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • alphabetize entries by the first word of the entry • entries are double spaced and the second line of an entry is a hanging indent of a ½ inch (standard tab space) • use only initials for the first and middle names even if the full name is given • in titles of books and articles, capitalize only the first word of the title, the first word following a colon or dash, and all proper nouns • in titles of periodicals, capitalize all significant words • italicize the titles of books and periodicals • one space after all punctuation • list only works that were referenced in the text of the paper (except personal communications)
For quoted information (information copied word for word): <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • use the author's surname followed immediately by the copyright year in brackets and the page from which the information was copied in brackets at the end of the sentence (see example on page 10 for details) OR <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • provide the author's surname, copyright year, and page in brackets at the end of the sentence before the period (see example on page 10 for details)

Reference Guide to the Chicago Manual of Style

Reference Guide to the Chicago Manual of Style

The Chicago manual of style is one of the most popular and widely used citation style for American English published in 1906 by the University of Chicago Press. This style is used in social science publications and historical journals.

The Chicago Manual of Style has two types of citation style:

- Author-Date Style
- Notes and Bibliography

Author-Date Style: This style is more common in science and social sciences. In this style sources are briefly cited in the text, usually in parentheses, by author's last name and year of publication. Each in text citation adjusts with an entry in a reference list, where full bibliographic information is provided.

Notes and Bibliography: Notes and Bibliography is another method of Chicago style. It uses numbered footnotes or endnotes to cite the resources. Notes are numbered within the text as superintend text. The footnotes or end notes with the full citation is placed at the foot or at the end of the paper or section.

General Guidelines: Author-Date Style:

- Every example for a reference list entry is accompanied by an example of a corresponding in-text citation.
- When no author is available, start the citation with the title of the article (book, etc.).
- Section and page numbers are given for each example when available for the Chicago style.
- When an article does not have DOI (Digital Object Identifier) number, include a URL.
- When there have four or more authors, include all authors in the reference list. Include the first author only in the in-text citation.
- Magazine articles do not need to be included in a reference list when using this style.

- News items, magazine articles from daily newspapers are rarely listed separately in a reference list when using this style. Newspaper citations are usually done entirely within the text.
- For citing a secondary source, if an original source is not available, mention the original author and date in the text of the work and may cite the secondary source in the reference list.
- For citing the website, website content can be included in the text of the paper.
- Author-Date style recommends citing audio visual materials for the running text and creating a separate section of films in the reference list.
- For E-book, include a URL or the name of the database in the reference list.
- For Journal Article, in the reference list, include the page range for the full article. For in-text citation, cite specific page numbers. For online article, include a URL or the name of the database in the reference list. Many Journal articles have DOI (Digital Object Identifier). DOI forms a permanent URL which begins <https://doi.org/>.
- Journal article often have many authors, especially in the sciences. If there have four or more authors, include up to ten in the reference list. For the in-text citation include only the first, followed by et. Al. (“and others”). For more than ten authors, include the first seven in the reference list.
- For newspaper articles, news sites, magazines, blogs, and the like are cited similarly. It can be useful to repeat the year with sources which are cited also by month and day in the text but not in the reference list. If the articles are on online, include a URL or the name of the database.
- Contents shared through social media which can usually be limited to the text. If a more formal citation is needed, a reference list may be useful. In place of title, Quote up to the first 160 Characters of the post. Comments are cited in reference to the original post.
- Personal communications which are including email and text messages and direct messages sent by social media, are usually cited in the text only; they are not included in the reference list.
- For th organizations or corporate authors, the name of the organization may be shortened. Abbreviations for the organization are not encouraged.

General Guidelines General Guidelines: Notes and Bibliography

Why footnotes or endnotes are needed?

- For indicating the exact source of every quotation used
- Acknowledging indebtedness to others for opinions, work product or ideas (e. g. Statistics)
- For providing authority for facts which are not common knowledge or the reader might be inclined to doubt
- For providing information which would disrupt the flow of the argument if it was inserted in the essay itself

Guidelines for Notes/ Footnotes:

- Footnotes must be numbered consecutively throughout the paper.
- Footnotes number must be inserted always after the punctuation.
- Footnotes must be placed at the bottom of each paper or at the end of the paper.
- Author's name appear in the conventional order (I. e. first-name first). The source will tell whether the author's full first name or initials should be used.
- For blogs, cite author, the entry title, the blog title, and the URL. Add the word blog in parentheses following the blog title unless the word blog appears in the title itself.
- The first line of each note is indented.
- Every note is single spaced, but there is a double space between notes.
- Sources which are cited in the notes must appears in the bibliography with the exception of reference works, personal communications and individual blog entries.
- For two or three authors, list each of the authors in the order presented on the title page of the book. For more than three authors, include the first author's name followed by "and others" or "et. al."

- When we need to cite edited book containing chapters by various authors, for citing use the editors' name as we would the names of authors following their name with "ed."
(short for edition). Works with a translation (trans.) or a compiler (comp.) would be treated similarly.
- If we will cite a particular essay or specific chapter in an edited book, we will refer to the specific chapter or essay but will also insert the title of the book and its editors.
- If there have no page numbers in the full text article, cite the paragraph numbers.

Guidelines for Bibliography

- Bibliography will start on a separate page at the end of the paper. (after the endnotes)
- Have to arrange entries alphabetically by the last name of the author or by the title if the author is anonymous.
- Include the first author of every work with the last name first. Include additional authors first-name first.
- Have to begin the first line of every entry at the left margin. Additional lines in the entry are intended (this is called hanging indent).
- In the bibliography, all the authors' name are listed.
- For less-known American and Canadian cities or cities which might be confused with another city of the same name, include a two-letter state or province postal abbreviation. Well known cities like New York, Toronto do not require the state or province to be included.
- For the bibliography entry, insert the page range of the chapter within the book.
- institutional authors may be an association, organization, corporation, committee etc. Provide the organization as author in the bibliography even if the organization is also the publisher.
- In the bibliography spell out the terms: „edited by“, „translated by“ or „ compiled by“
- Insert volume and Issue numbers in Arabic numerals. Seasons are capitalized and spell out in full. Months may be abbreviated or spelled out in full.

- When we cite a URL from a library database we should not use URL from the borrower's address bar. We should use a shortened stable URL provided by the database.
- If there are no page numbers in the full text article, cite the paragraph number.
- Weekly and monthly magazines are generally cited by date only, even if they have volume and issue numbers. Cite the specific page in notes, but not include the page range in the bibliography.
- Reference works usually should not entered in the bibliography.
- Cite individual web pages not entire website. Entries should include the following elements, where available: the title or a description of the site, URL, and the date. If there is no date then insert an access date.
- Blog entries can not cite in the bibliography.

Citing and Referencing

Ethics is a very important topic in research. Every researcher should know about the ethical violations in research. "Research misconduct-fabrication, falsification, and plagiarism-is an insidious problem in the scientific community today with the capacity to harm science, scientists, and the public." Kornfeld, Donald S. "Research Misconduct: The Search for a Remedy." Academic Medicine, vol. 87, no. 7, 2012, pp. 877-882.

To understand what is plagiarism and how to avoid this serious problem using this link <https://wts.indiana.edu/writing-guides/plagiarism.html>

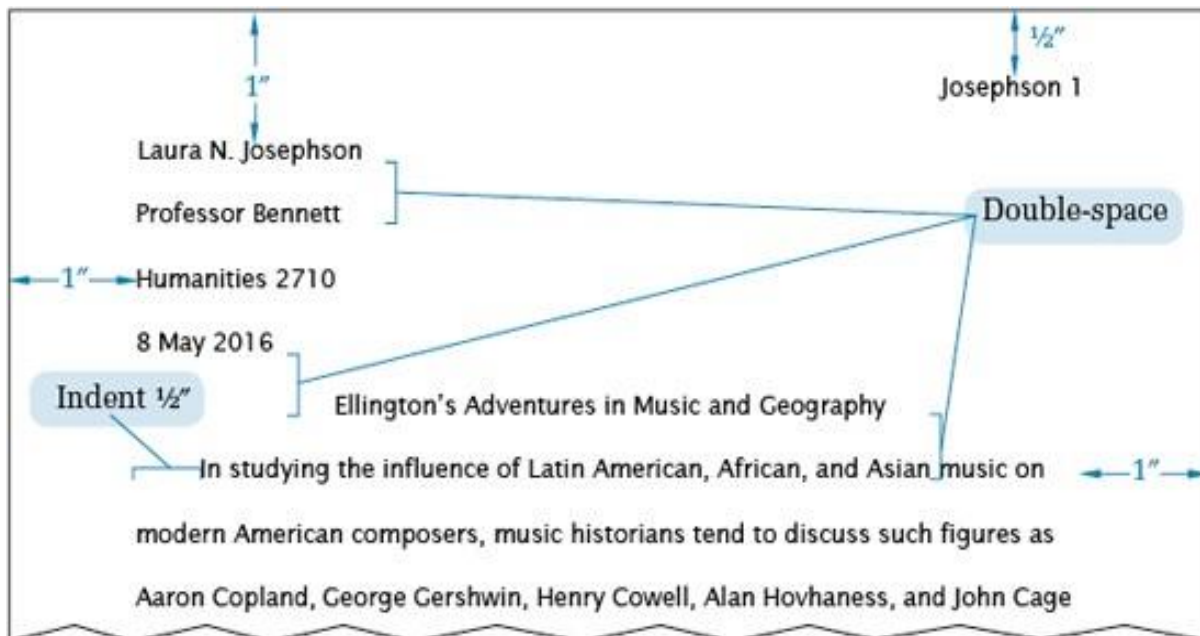

Basic Paper Format

When you have been asked to submit a paper in MLA style, you need to format the page and present the content in a specific way. The following steps will show you how to format a research paper in MLA style. However, it should be mentioned here that before formatting any style, ask your instructor's guideline first

General Paper/Manuscript Format

- ❑ The margins of document should be 1 inch on all sides
- ❑ Printout on paper larger than 8½ by 11 inches [do not print the text in an area greater than 6½ by 9 inches]
- ❑ Double space the text of paper.
- ❑ Use 12 pt. front size and a readable front type such as Times New Roman
- ❑ Beginning one inch from the top of the first page and flush with the left margin, type your name, your instructor's name, the course number, and the date on separate lines, double-spacing the lines. On a new, double-spaced line, center the title. Do not italicize or underline your title, put it in quotation marks or boldface, or type it in all capital letters.
- ❑ Do not use a period after your title or after any heading in the paper (e.g., Works Cited). Begin your text on a new, double-spaced line after the title, indenting the first line of the paragraph half an inch from the left margin

- Number all pages consecutively throughout the research paper in the upper right-hand corner, half an inch from the top and flush with the right margin. Type your last name, followed by a space, before the page number. Do not use the abbreviation p. before the page number or add a period, a hyphen, or any other mark or symbol.

Example:

Fig. 2. The running head of a research paper.

- ▣ Place tables and illustrations as close as possible to the parts of the text to which they relate. A table is usually labeled Table, given an arabic numeral, and titled. Type both label and title flush left on separate lines above the table, and capitalize them as titles (do not use all capital letters). Give the source of the table and any notes immediately below the table in a caption. To avoid confusion between notes to the text and notes to the table, designate notes to the table with lowercase letters rather than with numerals. Double-space throughout; use dividing lines as needed.

Example:

☐ If you have any endnotes, include them on a separate page before your Works Cited page.

The first page of an MLA Style paper will:

- ☐ Have no title page
- ☐ Double space everything
- ☐ List your name, your instructor's name, the course and date in the upper left-hand corner
- ☐ The paper title should be Center (use standard caps but no underlining, italics, quote marks or bold typeface)
- ☐ Create a header in the upper right corner at half inch from the top and one inch from the right of the page (list your last name and page number here)

In-Text Citations

Syntax

→ In general, the in-text citation will be the author's last name with a page number, enclosed in parentheses.

Example:

(Chambers 12)

Corresponding Works Cited Entry: Chambers, Angela. "Questions In English And French Research Articles In Linguistics: A Corpus-Based Contrastive Analysis." Corpus Pragmatics, 2017, pp. 12-50.

Syntax

→ If you are citing from the works of two different authors with the same last name, include the author's first initial in your reference

Example:

(R. Miller 12)

(A. Miller 46)

Syntax

→ If there is no author or the author is unknown, use the title. Shorter titles can be included in full in the in-text citation.

→ Longer titles can be shortened for the in-text citation but the first word (not counting articles like a, an, the, etc.) must remain so the title can be found in the alphabetized bibliography at the end of the paper. Titles of entire works (e.g. book titles) are italicized.

Example:

(Encyclopedia of Virginia 212)

Syntax

→ If the entry in the works-cited list begins with the names of two authors, include both last names in the in-text citation, connected by and.

→ If the source has three or more authors, the entry in the works-cited list should begin with the first author's name followed by et al. The in-text citation should follow suit.

Example:

(Booth and Williams 190)

(Barclay et al. 144-145)

Syntax

→ If you cite more than one work by a particular author, include a shortened title for the particular work from which you are quoting to distinguish it from the others.

Example:

Lightenor has argued that computers are not useful tools for small children ("Too Soon" 38), though he has acknowledged elsewhere that early exposure to computer games does lead to better small motor skill development in a child's second and third year ("Hand-Eye Development" 17).

Syntax

→ If the author's name is not mentioned in the sentence, format your citation with the author's name followed by a comma, followed by a shortened title of the work, followed, when appropriate, by page numbers

Example: Visual studies, because it is such a new discipline, may be “too easy” (Elkins, “Visual Studies” 63).

Syntax

→ If you cite from different volumes of a multivolume work, always include the volume number followed by a colon. Put a space after the colon, then provide the page number(s). (If you only cite from one volume, provide only the page number in parentheses.)

Example:
... as Quintilian wrote in InstitutioOratoria (1: 14-17).

Syntax

→ In your first parenthetical citation, you want to make clear which Bible you're using (italicize the title), as each version varies in its translation, followed by book (do not italicize), chapter and verse. Do not include page numbers. However, for references, employ the same edition of the Bible you are using, list only the book, chapter, and verse in the parenthetical citation.

Example:
Ezekiel saw “what seemed to be four living creatures,” each with the faces of a man, a lion, an ox, and an eagle (New Jerusalem Bible, Ezek. 1:5-10).

Syntax

→ For such indirect quotations, use "qtd. in" to indicate the source you actually consulted. This is illustrated in the first example on this slide.

Example:
(qtd. in Weisman 259).

Syntax

→ For works in time-based media, such as audio and video recordings, cite the relevant time or range of times. Give the numbers of the hours, minutes, and seconds as displayed in your media player, separating the numbers with colons.

Example:
("Buffy" 00:03:16-17).

Syntax

→ When a source has no page numbers or any other kind of part number, no number should be given in a parenthetical citation. Do not count unnumbered paragraphs, pauses, or other parts.

Example:
(Kotler)

Syntax

→ If you quote part or all of a line of verse that does not require special emphasis, put it in quotation marks within your text and mention the used line.

Example:

Properzia Rossi tells the statue that it will be a container for her feelings: "The bright work grows / Beneath my hand, unfolding, as a rose" (lines 31-32).

Syntax

→ If you add a word or words in a quotation, you should put brackets around the words to indicate that they are not part of the original text.

Example:

- Kotler and Armstrong, in book on principles of marketing, states: "Marketing is the social process by which individuals and organizations obtain what they need and want through creating and exchanging value [both individuals and organizations]with others"

Works-cited List

Syntax

→ If there are two authors, list the authors according to the order of the names on the title page. Reverse only the name of the first author, add a comma, and give the other names in normal forms.

Example:

Dorris, Michael, and Louise Erdrich. The Crown of Columbus. HarperCollins, 1999.

Book by three or more authors

Syntax

→ When a source has three or more authors, reverse the first of the names and follow it with a comma and add et al. (“and others”).

Example:

Burdick, Anne, et al. Digital Humanities. MIT Press, 2012.

An Anonymous book

Syntax

→ If a book has no author’s or editor’s name on the title page, begin the entry with title. Alphabetize the entry by the title, ignoring any initial a, an or the.

Example:

Encyclopedia of Virginia. New York: Somerset, 1993.

Syntax

For one editor entry begin with the following rules

Example:

Nunberg, Geoffrey, editor. The Future of the book. University of California Press, 1996.

OSCOLA Citation Style

Lib.ewubd.edu

East west University Library

OSCOLA Referencing Guide

The Oxford University Standard for the Citation of Legal Authorities (OSCOLA) is the referencing style used by the Leicester Law School, and by many law schools and legal publishers in the UK. OSCOLA is a guide to legal citation, not a style guide. For advice on punctuation, grammar and writing style, use the most recent editions of Fowler's Modern English Usage, The Oxford English Dictionary, and Hart's Rules. Hart's Rules is particularly useful for information about typographical conventions, but note that the legal citation section is not always consistent with OSCOLA.

OSCOLA is published and maintained by the University of Oxford, and is available to download For free from <https://www.law.ox.ac.uk/research-subject-groups/publications/oscola>. OSCOLA includes rules and examples for referencing all types of primary and secondary legal resources in the UK, Europe and Internationally. Please read this guide first. If you have any questions about OSCOLA referencing, please contact at Reference Section of EWU Library.

When to cite:

Reference Required	No Reference Required
Discuss the ideas and resource of another person in your own words.	Present the result of your own experiment and survey.
Copy text from another source	Write about your own opinion on a topic
Include a table or data or a diagram from another source.	Mention a fact which is commonly known.
Paraphrase the ideas from two separate sources linking them together using your own words.
Write about something you know you have read about somewhere but you cannot remember where.

Principles for footnotes

- When citing any source, either directly (as a quotation) or indirectly (by paraphrasing or Referring to ideas in a source), cite the reference in a footnote, in the style indicated in OSCOLA.
- Indicate footnotes with a superscript number which should appear after the relevant punctuation in the text (if any). Put the footnote marker at the end of a sentence, unless for the sake of clarity it is necessary to put it directly after the word or phrase to which it relates. If the word or phrase to which the footnote marker relates is in brackets, put the marker before the closing bracket.
- A quotation need not be footnoted separately from the name of the source from which it is derived if the two appear in the same sentence. Otherwise, separate notes should be used.
- Close footnotes with a full stop (or question or exclamation mark). Where more than one citation is given in a single footnote reference, separate them with semi-colons.
- When citing cases, give the name of the case, the neutral citation (if appropriate), and volume and first page of the relevant law report, and where necessary the court.
- If the name of the case is given in the text, it is not necessary to repeat it in the footnote.
- In the footnote at the bottom of the same page, insert the reference. In your footnote reference, refer to a specific page - or range of pages - if appropriate (this is known as 'pinpointing').

Principles for Bibliography

At the end of your work (and before any appendices) include all your references in a full bibliography.

Your bibliography is a list of every source of information you have used in preparing your piece of work, including sources you have used for background reading but not necessarily quoted from or referred to directly in your work. In your bibliography reference the information source as a whole, not specific pages. Sources should be listed alphabetically by author's surname, or by title if no author is given.

Your bibliography should be laid out in three parts:

1. Table of cases
2. Table of legislation
3. Bibliography

Table of cases

- Cases should be listed alphabetically by case name (eg Brown v Wilson, then Brown v Wright, then Browne v Wright).
- Cases should be alphabetized by the significant name. So, for example, In re the Estate of Farquar or Re Farquar's Estate should be listed in the table of cases under Farquar's Estate, Re.
- Unless there are very few cases, you should divide the table of cases into separate sections for separate jurisdictions.
 - European cases should be distinguished between ECJ, CFI and Commission cases and should be arranged in chronological and numerical order by their assigned case number.
- Shipping and trade mark cases (which are often referred to simply by the name of the ship or trade mark) should be included as normal, but should also have an additional entry in the table included under the name of the ship or trade mark, with a cross-reference to the full name of the case.

Table of legislation

- Legislation should be listed alphabetically by title.
- Your table of legislation should be listed with similar divisions to your table of cases to identify legislation from different jurisdictions.
- You may want to distinguish between primary and secondary legislation (eg having a 'List of Statutes' and a 'List of Statutory Instruments').

Short forms and ibids

Syntax:

The first time you reference a source, full details should be given in the footnote. For subsequent citations, a short form of the reference can be given, followed by a cross-reference (in brackets) to the fully referenced footnote. For cases the short form is normally the first party name, and for books and articles the author's surname. If you refer to the same work in the immediately following footnote, you can use ibid (an abbreviation of the Latin ibidem, meaning 'in the same place'), instead of the short form. Page numbers can also be used at the end of short forms and ibids.

Example:

(Where footnote 3 refers to footnote 2 and footnote 4 refers to footnote 1)

1. Richard Pears and Graham Shields, Cite them right: the essential referencing guide (9th ed., Palgrave Macmillan 2013).
2. Lisa Webley, Legal Writing (3rd ed., Routledge 2013).
3. ibid.
4. Pears and Shields (n 1).

Quotations

Syntax:

Short quotations (up to three lines of text), should be incorporated into the text, within 'single quotation marks'; longer quotations (over three lines of text), should be presented in an indented paragraph, without quotation marks. All quotations should be referenced by a footnote, and the page number of the quotation should be indicated at the end of the footnote. Quotations from other works must be faithful to the original, except where it is necessary to change quotation marks from single to double, or vice versa. If some words are missing from the quotation, or if it ends mid-sentence in the original text, use an ellipsis (...) to indicate that some of the quotation is missing.

Syntax:

If you directly quote or paraphrase a source, you should include the page or paragraph number at the end of the footnote (although not in the bibliography). OSCOLA uses minimal punctuation, and page numbers are given simply as a number e.g. 5 or range of numbers e.g. 5-6 at the end of the footnote, without any 'p' or 'pp' or 'page' prefix; paragraph numbers are normally given in square brackets e.g. [5] or [5-7] at the end of the footnote, without any 'para' prefix.

Example:

Book: - Lisa Webley, Legal Writing (3rd ed., Routledge 2013) 5

Journal: - Graham Virgo, 'Why Study Law: the Relevance of Legal Information' (2011) 11 LIM 221, 223-224

Authors

Syntax:

Give authors' names as they appear in the publication, but omit post nominal such as QC. In footnotes, give the author's first name or initial(s) followed by their surname; in the bibliography, give the author's surname first, followed by their initial(s)

Example:

Footnote: - Lisa Webley, Legal Writing (3rd edn, Routledge 2013).

Bibliography: -Webley L, Legal Writing (3rd edn, Routledge 2013)

If there are between 1 and 3 authors, give all the authors' names in the reference; if there are 4 or more authors, give the first author's name, followed by the words 'and others'. If the author is not known, begin the citation with the title (do not use anon).

Example:

Footnote: - Scott Slorach and others, Legal Systems and Skills (3rd ed., OUP 2017).

Bibliography: -Slorach S and others, Legal Systems and Skills (3rd ed., OUP 2017)

Book

Cite all publications with an ISBN as if they were books, whether read online or in hard copy. Older books do not have ISBNs, but should be cited as books even if read online

Authored books

Cite the author's name first, followed by a comma, and then the title of the book in italics. Where a book has a title and subtitle not separated with punctuation, insert a colon.

Publication information follows the title within brackets. Publication elements should always include the publisher and the year of publication, with a space but no punctuation between them. The place of publication need not be given. If you are citing an edition other than the first edition, indicate that using the form '2nd ed. (or 'rev ed.' for a revised edition).

Additional information should be of a clarifying nature: it may include the editor, the translator or other descriptive information about the work.

Syntax:

Author, | Title of the Book | (Edition, | Publisher | Year)

Example:

Edited and translated books

If there is no author, cite the editor or translator as you would an author, adding in brackets after their name ‘(ed)’ or ‘(tr)’, or ‘(eds)’ or ‘(trs)’ if there is more than one.

Example:

Jeremy Horder (ed), Oxford Essays in Jurisprudence: Fourth Series (OUP 2000)

Peter Birks and Grant McLeod (trs), The Institutes of Justinian (Duckworth 1987)

If the work has an author, but an editor or translator is also acknowledged on the front cover, cite the author in the usual way and attribute the editor or translator at the beginning of the publication information, within the brackets.

Example:

HLA Hart, Punishment and Responsibility: Essays in the Philosophy of Law (John Gardner ed, 2nd edn, OUP 2008)

Older works

Books published before 1800 commonly have as 'publisher' a long list of booksellers; in such cases it is appropriate to cite merely the date and place of publication. When citing a recent publication of an older work, it may be appropriate to indicate the Original publication date within the brackets and before the publication details of the recent publication.
