To learn more, visit AAA.com/PBS

Greetings and welcome to An Evening Uncorked at Home!

We are pleased to have you join us from home to benefit such an essential community resource as local public television.

Your generosity through this online auction is an investment in local content and in our community programs that help build a strong and sustainable future for all, from preschoolers to senior citizens. Thank you!

While we may not clink wine glasses or share handshakes and hugs this year, the sense of important connection to a worthwhile purpose is as urgent as ever.

Please browse this catalog and the website for the many items generously donated by local and regional businesses large and small. Bid with confidence, knowing your high winning bids preserve and advance the worthy cause of public television.

Tune in Wednesday, October 13 at 8 p.m. to see highlights of innovative education services and local productions your high bids make possible at Rhode Island PBS.

And thank you for your continued support and affection. Cheers!

Rhode Island Distributing

Rhode Island PBS is delighted to present Atwater-Donnelly in a special performance for An Evening Uncorked at Home! Enjoy the inspiring musical interlude on Wednesday, October 13 at 8 p.m., filmed at The Towers - the iconic landmark in Narragansett, RI.

Aubrey Atwater and Elwood Donnelly blend gorgeous harmonies and play a wide assortment of instruments, including guitar, Appalachian mountain dulcimer, harmonica, banjo, and more. Their performances appeal to all ages, and blend humor, audience participation, and a relaxed stage presence. Married since 1989, Aubrey and Elwood perform throughout the United States and abroad, and their thirteen recordings receive international airplay.
