

BON COEUR

PORTFOLIO 2025-26

WHY CHOOSE BON COEUR?

Unparalleled local service

We offer market-leading value, plus the personal touch of a Northern independent supplier with fair, sustainable pricing and reliable, flexible service. We work with you as part of your team, strengthening your customer offering and setting you apart from the competition.

Our dedicated and experienced team will support you all the way, putting your business at the heart of what we do. We understand that all our customers are unique, and as such offer tailored solutions to suit your needs.

Wine Consultancy

Our wine consultancy approach aims to match you with the right wine list for your business, with the customer in mind, curating the best fit for your venue. Your account will be personally managed by one of our highly experienced account managers and supported by the Bon Coeur team led by James Goodhart. By choosing us, you're choosing reliability, expertise and a partner who really understands your business. Our aim is to surpass your expectations and offer an unrivalled service from grape to glass.

Truly independent

Without the restriction of agency agreements, we source the best products from the best producers. This enables us to offer exceptional wines at competitive prices with a high degree of flexibility and availability. No requirement to buy full cases, just a minimum purchase order of 60 bottles (any mix) to maximise efficiency and remain cost effective. Our wines are delivered by our vans from our own on-site bonded warehouse. This means less wine miles and lower CO2 emissions.

Award winning range

We build lasting partnerships with top wineries, curating wines that balance quality, value, and drinkability. Our selections boost clients' wine sales and stand out for the right reasons. In 2024, our founder James Goodhart won UK Wine Buyer of the Year, proving our commitment to quality without compromising on value.

Wine Education

Our company is driven by passion, knowledge, and experience. Education is key to our strategy. We work with trade customers to deliver tailored training through WSET, Wine Academy, and bespoke programmes. Our multi-layered approach helps individuals deepen their understanding and grow their wine knowledge at every level. It also helps business owners retain and reward their teams.

NEW ARRIVALS

Chispas: Introducing our exclusive new Spanish range, carefully sourced by our award-winning buying team. Their mission is to find wines with Bon Coeur's signature drinkability, premium quality, and standout presentation, and they've delivered. Produced in DO Campo de Borja in Aragón, southeast of Navarra, between the foothills of the Sistema Ibérico mountains and the plains of the River Ebro. This cooler region brings freshness and energy to the wines. Chispas, meaning 'spark', reflects both connection and character, these wines that are expressive yet easy-going. From zesty Blanco to bold old-vine Tempranillo and refreshing Rosado, Chispas pairs effortlessly with Spanish cuisine or modern menus. Ideal for house wine, events, or lively gatherings.

Chispas Tinto, Tempranillo 2024

Chispas Blanco, Macabeo-Chardonnay 2024

Chispas Rosado, Garnacha 2024

Teanum: Located in the northern part of Puglia (the heel of Italy's boot), Teanum was founded in 2000 with the aim of producing wines that truly represented this hidden gem of a region. 150-hectares of vineyards throughout 7 estates with a focus on native varietals that express their philosophy of 'Puglia in Testa' (Puglia in mind) conveying the essence of the region. These wines will really make a statement on your wine list and with their table presence!

Foursquare Distillery Veritas Rum 70cl (Mixed Origin)

A beautiful blend of un-aged Jamaican pot still and Barbadian column still rums. Aromatic and powerful with notes of green plantain and vanilla pods, this is a wonderful rum for making all manner of cocktails, but especially good in a daquiri.

Nine Tines Vodka 70cl (Yorkshire, England)

This multi award-winning vodka made with potatoes grown just a stone's throw away from our own Moor Park HQ in North Yorkshire is silky smooth with a clean finish. This passion project of two families has created a unique product of incredible provenance and quality. Nine Tines Vodka works equally well in a cosmo as it does mixed with tonic.

Tapatia Tequila Blanco 50cl (Jalisco, Mexico)

Three generations of expertise combine with respect for tradition and an artisanal approach to create this expressive and dynamic tequila. Double distilled with a keen attention to detail allow the natural flavours of the agave plant to shine through. Magnificent in a margarita.

It's no secret that cocktails are big business, and the ingredients you choose to use can be the difference between a good cocktail and an exceptional one.

Let our spirits guru Matthew guide you through some of the best cocktail spirits in our range.

COCKTAIL HOUR

Spirit of Harrogate Slingsby London Dry Gin 70cl (Yorkshire, England)

Distilled with 24 carefully selected botanicals and the mineral waters from the mineral springs around the market town of Harrogate, this is an exceptional London Dry Gin. Notes of grapefruit, juniper and jasmine marry together to create the perfect spirit to create a refreshing Elderflower Collins.

Nikka from the Barrel 50cl (Japan)

Founded by the father of Japanese whisky, Nikka is the best-selling Japanese whisky in Europe and it's not hard to see why. A blend of 60% grain and 40% malt, aged for an average of 10 years before blending, this is an elegant and refined expression of the Japanese style. Perfect for a highball or as a base for any number of whisky cocktails.

Gonzalez Byass La Copa Vermouth (Jerez, Spain)

Reaching back through their archives to bring to life recipes dating from 1906, with a secret blend of woodworm, cloves and cinnamon along with their famous high-quality sheries.

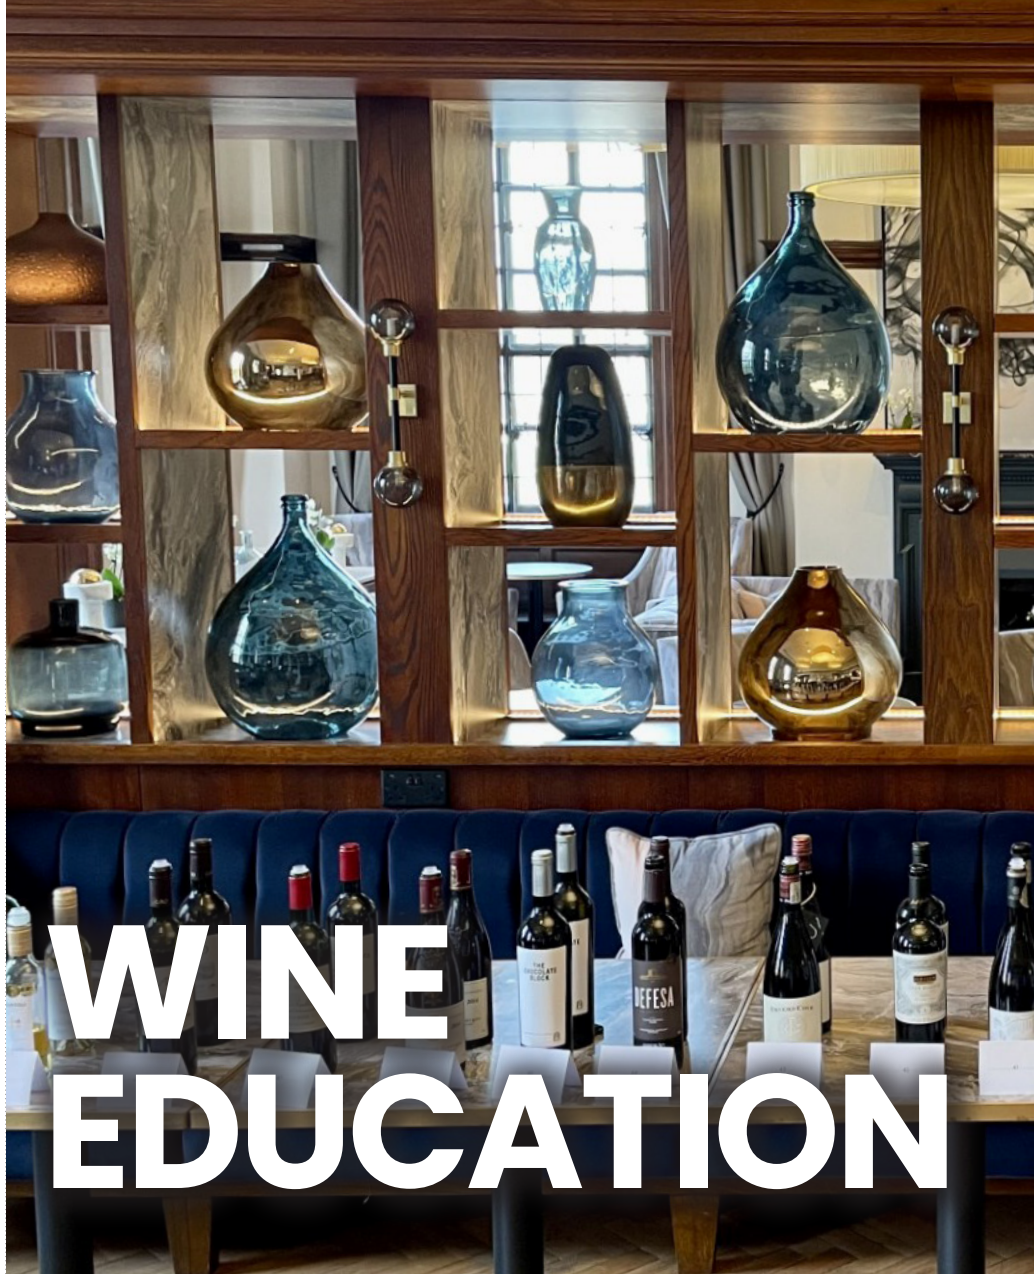

These vermouths are perfect over ice, in a long drink with tonic, or as the base for any number of creative cocktails.

Our key principles for delivering successful wine education are nurturing engagement, building confidence and creating a wine culture throughout our training platforms. Our aim is to inspire, support, and develop people from the hospitality sector in their wine journeys, providing them with the knowledge and confidence to build a career in the wine trade. Each step of our training program encourages individuals to build on their understanding and expand their wine knowledge. We adopt a multi-layered approach through bespoke hospitality training, WSET, and Wine Academy.

Bespoke Training

We collaborate closely with our trade customers to develop wine training programs tailored to their needs, including seasonal wine sessions to ensure that the level of wine knowledge is maintained and consistent throughout the year, enabling them to deliver the best experiences for their guests.

Wine Academy

The Wine Academy is one of our most significant training achievements, setting us apart from our peers. It offers customers a unique opportunity to gain in-depth knowledge of the wine industry in ways they wouldn't normally access. Delivered in an engaging and informative format, the Academy encourages discussion on key topics impacting the sector, such as climate change, evolving consumer trends, and industry challenges. By combining education with real-world insights, it deepens understanding and fosters meaningful dialogue, empowering participants to stay informed and ahead in a rapidly changing industry landscape.

WSET

The WSET Level 1 and 2 Awards in Wine provide an excellent foundation for building wine knowledge and confidence. Level 1 covers wine styles, food pairing, and service basics, perfect for beginners or hospitality starters. Level 2 offers deeper insight into grape varieties, key regions, winemaking, and label terminology.

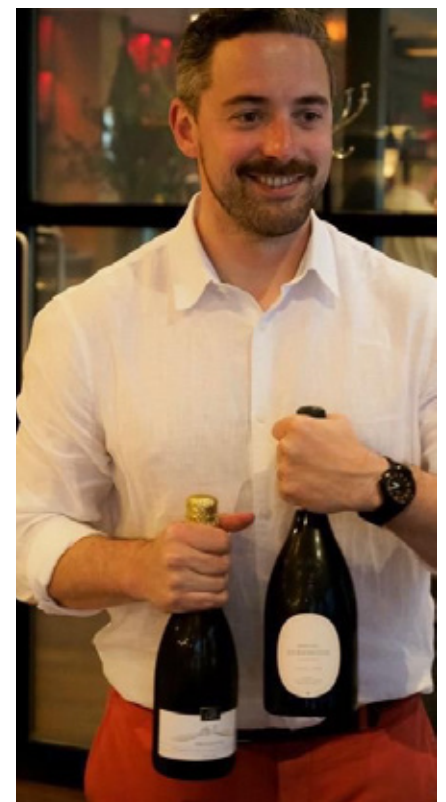

Results

The enhanced knowledge and insights achieved enable staff to sell and upsell wine while discussing it with confidence and authenticity. The outcome is that the staff feel empowered, excited, and engaged with the wine category, feeling valued and invested in. Our trade customers have reported that our educational programs have significantly benefited their businesses, aiding in staff retention and offering career advancement opportunities in a competitive market where they have previously faced challenges in keeping talented employees. Their teams feel appreciated and invested in due to the training we offer.

“The Wine Academy was a great experience, deepening my industry knowledge beyond WSET, exploring producers, trends, and challenges in the current market, while connecting with others and gaining valuable insight into the trade’s evolving landscape”

Both globally recognised qualifications give learners a competitive advantage in hospitality. They promote responsible service and enable professionals to engage confidently with guests. Whether advancing a career or enriching personal knowledge, these engaging courses equip participants to taste with confidence and appreciate the diverse world of wine.

FOOD & WINE PAIRING 101

Pairing food and wine is both an art and a science, one that can transform an ordinary meal into a memorable dining experience. The right wine doesn't just complement the flavours on your plate, it can elevate them, drawing out subtle notes and balancing textures. Understanding the basics of wine and food pairing can help you create harmonious combinations that delight the palate. From classic regional matches to bold contrasts, discovering how wine interacts with different ingredients opens a world of culinary possibilities.

1. Match weight & intensity

Light wines like Pinot Grigio and Beaujolais shine alongside delicate dishes such as salads or white fish. Conversely, full-bodied wines like Cabernet Sauvignon or Syrah stand up to richer, heartier meals like steak or slow-cooked stews, balancing intensity beautifully.

2. Pair acidity with acidity

Wines with high acidity, such as Sauvignon Blanc or Chianti, are perfect companions to acidic foods like tomato-based pasta or vinaigrette salads. The acidity in both wine and food harmonises, creating a refreshing balance that lifts the entire dining experience.

3. Complement or contrast

You can either complement or contrast flavours when pairing. Rich dishes match well with rich wines, pair roast chicken with an oaked Chardonnay. Alternatively, contrasting works wonders too, think fatty duck or pork belly with a bright Pinot Noir, or Champagne with crispy fish and chips.

4. Sweet with spicy

Slightly sweet wines, such as Riesling or Gewürztraminer, provide a cooling effect to spicy cuisines like Thai or Indian food. Their off-dry character balances the heat, making the meal more enjoyable without overpowering the flavours.

5. Tame tannins with protein

Tannins found in bold reds like Malbec or Cabernet Sauvignon soften when paired with protein-rich foods such as red meat or aged cheeses. This interaction mellows the wine's astringency and enhances the flavours on your plate.

6. Beware of sweetness in the food

When pairing wine with dessert or sweet dishes, the wine must be sweeter than the food. A dry wine paired with something sweet can taste sour or bitter, disrupting the harmony of flavours.

7. Match region with region

Regional pairings often bring natural harmony, what grows together goes together. For example, Chianti complements Italian pasta dishes perfectly, while Rioja enhances Spanish tapas, reflecting local traditions and flavour profiles.

8. Sparkling wines are versatile

Champagne, Prosecco, and Cava are incredibly adaptable. Their crispness and bubbles cut through fried foods, pair beautifully with sushi, and complement creamy cheeses, making them an excellent choice for many occasions.

9. Salt loves wine

Salt in food enhances the fruity notes of wine and softens bitterness. Enjoying salty snacks with sparkling or red wines can elevate both, making the pairing more vibrant and satisfying.

10. Don't be ruled by rules

While pairing guidelines help, the best match is what your guests will enjoy! Sometimes unexpected combinations create the most memorable experiences. Wine and food pairing is as much about personal pleasure as it is about tradition.

Cramele Recaș, Romania

In 1991, Philip Cox and partners revitalised a derelict Romanian winery, investing over €50 million to modernise it. Today, Cramele Recaș leads in premium Romanian wine exports. They craft elegant, terroir-driven wines using local varieties and modern techniques, highlighting the region's limestone soils and microclimate. Sustainability is key, with eco-friendly spraying, water recycling, and vegan-certified production. Cramele's wines reflect Recaș's heritage, offering structure, complexity, and balance.

Esporão, Alentejo, Portugal

Esporão, based in Portugal's Alentejo region, produces exceptional wines with minimal environmental impact. Embracing organic farming, they protect soil health and vineyard resilience, yielding balanced grapes with strong identity and terroir expression. Esporão operates three wineries, Herdade do Esporão (Alentejo), Quinta dos Murças (Douro), and Quinta do Ameal (Vinho Verde), each located within its vineyards. This ensures top-quality grapes and supports their philosophy of minimal intervention winemaking, blending tradition, sustainability, and a deep respect for nature.

PRODUCERS WITH A STORY

Telling the story behind a wine helps people feel more connected to it, highlighting terroir, craftsmanship, and the special touches that make it unique adds meaning, educates consumers, and enhances enjoyment.

Marqués de Murrieta, Rioja, Spain

Marqués de Murrieta, founded in 1852 in Rioja, Spain, is one of the region's most prestigious wineries, known for its elegant, traditional Rioja wines. The estate combines heritage and innovation, producing reds, whites, and rosés that reflect Rioja's unique terroir. A standout figure is María Vargas, the extraordinary female winemaker leading the winery today. She has brought fresh vision and expertise, blending classic Rioja methods with modern techniques, enhancing the wines' complexity and finesse. María's role highlights the growing influence of women in a historically male-dominated industry, making Marqués de Murrieta a beacon of tradition and progress.

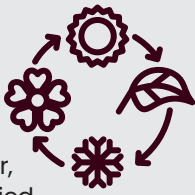

Brännland, Uppsala, Sweden

Brännland Cider, founded in 2010 by Andreas Sundgren in Umeå, Sweden, produces artisanal ice cider on the Baltic seaboard of northern Sweden based on 100% apple juice and completely free from additives. Leveraging the region's natural cold, they concentrate apple juice to create ice cider, adhering to the strict production standards set in Quebec, Canada. Their flagship product, Brännland Iscider, has garnered international acclaim, winning gold medals and being featured in Michelin-starred restaurants across Europe as the food pairing opportunities are vast.

1 Follow the Seasons

Switch up your selection to reflect the time of year! Light, zesty whites and rosés for spring and summer, bold reds and fortified wines for the colder months. Seasonal wines pair naturally with seasonal menus.

2 Embrace Sustainability

Natural, vegan, organic, biodynamic... these aren't just buzzwords. Diners increasingly care where their wine comes from and how it's made.

3 Mix Familiar with Discovery

Keep your bestselling favourites, like Sauvignon Blanc or Malbec, but balance them with exciting, lesser-known grapes like Grüner Veltliner, Greco, or Barbera to spark curiosity and conversation.

4 By the glass offerings

A rotating by-the-glass selection lets customers explore new wines without the commitment of a bottle. It's a great way to introduce more adventurous picks.

5 Train Your Team

Even the best wine list falls flat without confident staff. Wine training will ensure your team can speak about the wines with ease and enthusiasm. A well-informed floor team is your best sales tool.

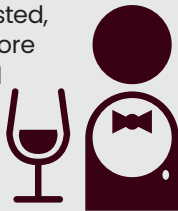

TOP TIPS TO REFRESH YOUR WINE LIST

Refreshing your wine list keeps offerings current, showcases new trends, attracts repeat customers, improves sales, and ensures pairing with updated menus, enhancing overall guest satisfaction and business growth.

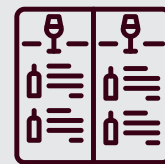

6 Highlight Staff Picks

Let your team choose and champion a few wines. When they're personally invested, they sell with more confidence and passion.

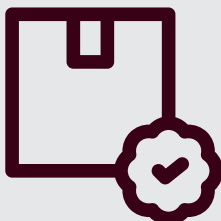

7 Refresh the Look

Sometimes all it takes is a visual update. Rethink the layout, streamline the categories, consider grouping wines by style; crisp, aromatic, bold, or add tasting notes to make the list more inviting and reader-friendly.

8 Watch the Price Spread

A refreshed list should offer value across all price points. Include an entry-level house pour, mid-range gems, and a few premium or fine wines priced accessibly.

9 Stay on Trend, but Stay You

Orange wines, chillable reds and low or no alcohol options are hot right now. Incorporate trends, but make sure they still reflect your venue's personality and that of your customers.

10 Tell the Story Behind the Bottle

Every great wine has a story, about the winemaker, the vineyard, the vintage. Use your list, or staff, to bring those stories to life. Whether it's a family-run estate in the Loire or a young female winemaker redefining Barossa Shiraz, storytelling adds depth, intrigue, and emotional connection to what's in the glass.

UPSELLING TIPS

Upselling on your wine list boosts revenue, enhances customer experience, and promotes premium selections, increasing overall satisfaction and profits with minimal extra effort.

Food pairing opportunity

Use the food menu to guide wine choices. When you connect wine to the dining experience, guests are more likely to trust your suggestion and say yes to a better bottle.

Tell the story

Mention the winemaker's passion, a quirky vineyard location, or an interesting production method. A story creates a connection and people buy stories more than they buy facts.

Highlight value, not just price

Upselling doesn't always mean pushing the most expensive bottle. Focus on quality and experience: "For just a few pounds more, this wine overdelivers, it's from an organic estate in the Rhone and drinks like a wine twice the price..."

Know your wine list inside out

Confidence sells. Learn key tasting notes, origin stories, and food pairings. The more familiar you are, the easier it is to make genuine recommendations.

Suggest by style, not just price

Steer guests toward premium options by focusing on flavour: "If you enjoy Sauvignon Blanc, you might love this Sancerre, it's more elegant and mineral driven."

Offer a taste when possible

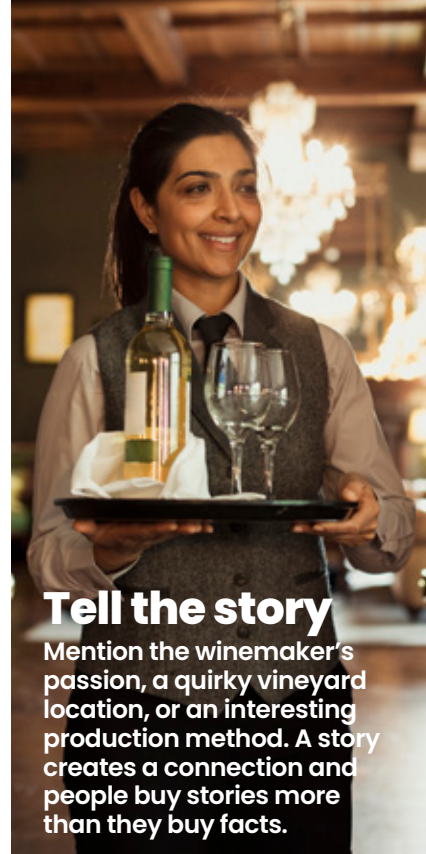

If your venue allows, offering a tasting sample can build trust and make guests more likely to commit to a higher-end glass or bottle.

Be enthusiastic and honest

Genuine excitement is contagious. Recommend a wine that you love, and guests will respond positively to your authenticity.

Offer the option to trade up

"If you like this...why not try this...?" or "Would you be interested in something just a step up from that, it's a real favourite." It feels like an upgrade, not an upsell.

WINE LIFE WITH RACHEL LOVE

Meet Rachel Love, our in-house wine educator who's as passionate about discovering great wines as she is about travel, fashion, food, and the great outdoors. We sat down to hear how her love for all these things shapes her unique approach to wine and life.

Dinner Party Guest

Hannah Crosbie, Guardian wine critic. Her sharp insights on wine and culture, warm storytelling, and genuine passion would make her a captivating and inspiring dinner guest.

Travel Bucket List

I've explored many wine regions around the world over the years, with work and for pleasure, for my next adventure I am eager to explore Italy from North to South, inspired by Stanley Tucci! Also, Alsace and South Africa complete my travel bucket list.

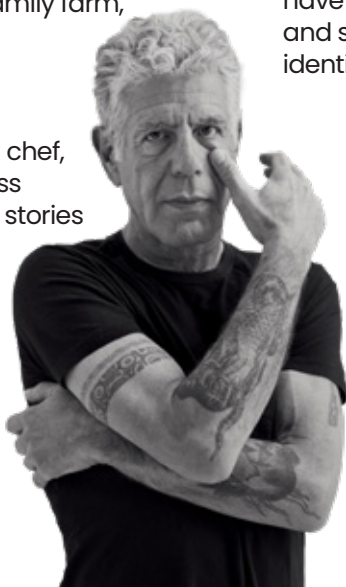

Food & Wine Heaven

Roast leg of Welsh Lamb from the family farm, with a decent Rioja.

Restaurant Hero

Anthony Bourdain was more than a chef, author and TV host, he was a fearless explorer of culture through food. His stories deeply impacted me, and many restaurants from his shows have given me some of the best meals I've ever experienced - Le Dôme Café in Paris, Katz's Delicatessen, New York, Tsukiji Fish Market, Tokyo and Txakoli Simon in Bilbao.

Wine Fridge Staple

Cave Talmard Macon-Uchizy or Kumeu River Estate Chardonnay, because Chardonnay goes with pretty much everything!

Guilty Pleasure

Adding ice cubes in a glass of rosé on a hot day! I know it dilutes the flavours, but it is important to stay hydrated!

Wine legend

I was starstruck when I met Ernst Loosen, he is a legend for revolutionising German Riesling and elevating Germany's global reputation. His decades-long passion and consistency have inspired winemakers and shaped modern Riesling's identity and prestige.

Wine lightbulb moment

Château d'Armailhac 1996 was the wine that made it all click for me, that unforgettable moment when everything connected. The wine, the vintage, the craftsmanship, the story, the food pairing, it all came together and sparked a lifelong fascination.

You can find Rachel at many of our events. Sign up to one of our WSET courses or the Wine Academy, all hosted by Rachel.

WINE ACADEMY FIELD TRIP

For the first time, we took our Wine Academy on tour, visiting two of England's most celebrated vineyards, the iconic Chapel Down and the innovative Silverhand Estate. Set amidst rolling Kent countryside and sun-drenched vines, these stunning locations offered an immersive, hands-on experience for our students to deepen their understanding of English winemaking. From exploring the vineyards to tasting the wines, students engaged with every stage of the winemaking process, guided by experts who brought the craft to life. The tour blended education with inspiration, offering insights that extended far beyond the classroom.

IWC NOMINATIONS

We are thrilled to share that Bon Coeur Fine Wines has been named a finalist in four categories at the International Wine Challenge UK Industry Awards 2025!

- ★ Buying Team of the Year
- ★ Trade Educator of the Year
- ★ Single Site Retailer
- ★ Regional Retailer for Northern England

We are honoured to be recognised in these prestigious national awards. It's a true reflection of the team's passion, commitment and our point of difference; delivering excellence every step of the way. For those of you unfamiliar with the IWC awards, they are the Oscars of the wine world. As a family-run business, to be listed alongside some of the biggest names in the industry, is both humbling and inspiring. A big thank you to all our customers, producers and supporters, we couldn't do it without you... Go team Bon Coeur!

DISCOVER...

Ombremont Bourg Lachamps, Pinot Noir, 2023 NEW

Crafted by one of the leading producers in Southern Rhone, this delivers pure silky hedgerow fruits on a bed of cherries and damsons with a sprinkle of cinnamon spice and white pepper. Juicy and generous with real drinkability. It's hard to find classic, drinking Pinot Noir at this level.

Chispas Tempranillo, 2024 NEW

At this price, this is a real winner, however, it also delivers on taste! Plush and juicy, thanks to the ripe red cherries and plums, rounded tannins that envelop a dark black fruit core with integrated black pepper spice on a pleasing finish.

Shannon Ridge Chardonnay, 2023 NEW

Superb Californian wine, brimming with ripe pear, green apple and a touch of toasted coconut and caramel. Creamy, rich mid-palate underpinned by linear acidity with added white stone fruit and a tropical carnival. Finished with white pepper on a long, juicy finish.

Welcome

I'm delighted to introduce our new wine portfolio. This past year presented its fair share of challenges across the wine trade – from rising costs, supply chain issues and tightening margins to unpredictable market dynamics. Yet, amid the uncertainty, we've remained committed to sourcing distinctive, high-quality wines that offer that 'drinkability factor', real value and a sense of place, for you, our customer.

This new portfolio is a reflection of that commitment. We've introduced a number of exciting new arrivals; pioneering wines from California and the Ardeche in southern France, to a vibrant Puglian selection from Italy, as well as a standout New Zealand range from Marlborough, that's already turning heads. These wines sit proudly alongside our long-standing partners, whose wines continue to impress vintage after vintage.

Putting this portfolio together has taken real dedication. Get set to immerse yourself in our Meet the Winemaker series, as well as our Insider Travel Guides, a must read for those looking for a wine adventure! I want to take this opportunity to thank our team – for their passion, insight, and sheer hard work. From tastings and negotiations to logistics and customer care, every day they go above and beyond, to deliver a wine service that we're so proud of.

To our customers – a big thank you. Your continued support, feedback, and enthusiasm keep us going. Whether you've been with us for years or have only just discovered Bon Coeur, we're grateful for the trust you place in us. We remain focused on providing you with a five star service and wines that inspire confidence, delivering genuine pleasure in the glass.

We hope this new collection brings you fresh inspiration and plenty of enjoyment. As we embark on our 32nd year in business, we raise a glass to the year ahead – to good wine, good people, and a shared passion for what we do; Wines from the Heart.

WHY BON COEUR?

At Bon Coeur we believe buying wine should be a pleasure, not a gamble. With so many retailers offering endless choice and little guidance, it's hard to know who to trust. That's where we come in.

We are a proudly independent, specialist merchant with over 30 years of experience, offering carefully selected wines, honest advice, genuine pricing and a personal service you won't find at the supermarket or on a faceless online platform.

So what sets us apart?

Curated with care; at Bon Coeur every bottle is handpicked by our award winning buying team, it is not selected by AI nor tied to commercial sales targets. We taste, we assess and we re-taste; we select and sell wines based on quality, personality and value.

We work directly with the wine makers, family-run estates, respected winemakers and up and coming, under the radar producers across Europe and beyond. This means better provenance, better pricing and access to wines that all have that Bon Coeur drinkability factor.

Offering exceptional personal service; we are a hands-on, passionate team and we pride ourselves on building real relationships with our customers. Whether you need advice, food pairings, or help planning a wedding or wine collection. We love talking wine and we're just a phone call or an email away.

You will find provenance and trust; we import direct, everything comes into our own on-site bonded warehouse, carefully checked and stored by our dedicated team. This also reduces unnecessary transport and handling, helping to lower our carbon footprint and support a more sustainable supply chain.

At Bon Coeur, there's real expertise you can truly rely upon; we've built a reputation for quality and consistency, garnered by over 30 years of industry experience. We serve collectors, the hospitality industry and first-time buyers alike – we love matching the right wine to the right moment. Why not let us help you with your wine moment.

Finally, when you buy from a family-run business like ours, you're supporting real people, not shareholders. Every order matters to us – it helps us grow, invest in our team, and keep doing what we love. We care about every bottle, every customer and every detail. That's what sets Bon Coeur apart.

“We are a hands-on, passionate team and we pride ourselves on building real relationships with our customers... We love talking wine and we're just a phone call or an email away.”

WINE INSIGHTS

WHAT'S HOT AND...

Wine Clubs We've seen a big increase in demand for our Bon Coeur Wine Collectors Club membership as customers search for new and exciting wines, without the guesswork. Tailor-made to reflect your personal taste and goals; sign up today and receive the very best wines directly to your door!

Native Grapes Break out of the mainstream and get to know under the radar regions and discover native grapes like Albariño (Galicia), Primitivo (Puglia) and Assyrtiko (Crete.) These wines are deeply rooted in history, culture and terroir from which they are grown, helping them to stand out in a saturated global market.

Smarter Sipping It sounds like a cliché, however, spending a little more on bottle of wine will give you a big leap in quality. Better grapes, better winemaking and a much better glass; we challenge you not to taste the difference! In fact, do challenge us, let us find your sweet spot.

Sustainability It's no longer a buzzword, but a key factor for many when choosing wine. It's becoming the norm to know about farming practices and carbon footprints as consumers search for wines that reflect their values. Regenerative, organic and biodynamic farming practices are here to stay.

Viva Vinho! As consumers become more adventurous there's no other country that delivers quite like Portugal. Native grapes, the effortless fusion of tradition and modernity, as well as high-quality wines at affordable prices... what's not to love? Vamos!

Wine Tourism Immerse yourself in grape to glass by visiting a winery on your next holiday. From vineyard visits in 4x4s to modern tasting rooms with unbeatable views, as well as unforgettable food and wine experiences; it's the perfect blend of leisure and learning! See our Insider's Guides for more inspiration...

HOT-HOT-HOT-HOT-HOT

...WHAT'S NOT

Cork Snobbery There's a long-standing belief that cork is king and any other closure is inferior. However, we all now know that quality wines can come with screwcaps or glass stoppers. Consistency and convenience are what matter most nowadays. Brush off tradition and embrace alternatives!

Big Brand Loyalty Customers are branching out from mass produced, big brands found in supermarkets or national retailers. Instead, they're looking for wines from smaller producers who offer genuine authenticity alongside a unique story and recommendation that gives them a reason to buy.

Social Media Gimmicks It's tempting to believe every wine influencer who promises "just like Whispering Angel at half the price!" If it were that good, it wouldn't still be half the price. Good rosé has its price and real value is rarely found in shortcuts.

High ABV Reds Gone are the days of big, blockbuster reds like Aussie Shiraz and Californian Cabernet Sauvignon. There's a shift toward fresher, vibrant and juicier wines with lower alcohol and tannin levels. Look out for grapes such as Pinot Noir, Grenache or Mencía... you might just find your new favourite.

Traditional Regions Savvy buyers are moving away from traditional regions for many reasons, from rising costs, changing flavour preferences to simply wanting to be more adventurous in what they drink. It's a big wine world out there with lots to discover... get off the beaten track and explore!

Stuffy Notes & Slow Service Customers want their wine experience to feel easy and enjoyable; accessible to all. Stuffy and slow service has been thrown out, today's wine enthusiasts are more interested in discovering something new than impressing anyone with wine jargon. Tasting notes too have changed for the better, no-one wants to read about malolactic fermentation!

At Bon Coeur we take great care over finding new wines. Always tasting, we travel regularly, meet winemakers and explore established and emerging producers. Wine should be a joy to drink, and our latest arrivals are just that, striking the perfect balance of quality, value and personality. Most importantly we ask, “do they have that drinkability factor?”

Every bottle, new producer and new vintage undergoes a rigorous selection process by our wine buying team. Whether it's a classic vintage from a prestigious Château or a brilliant find that just hits the spot, these new arrivals reflect everything we love about good wine. No gimmicks, no lookalikes, just honest, expressive, well-balanced wines, chosen with you in mind. Look out for new wines in the brochure and online, here's a few recommendations to delve into. Cheers!

Wines made with care, rooted in place. Vignerons Ardechois is a co-operative of over 1,500 small growers, working together across the Ardeche in the western foothills of the Rhone Valley. This isn't a flashy négociant or polished Château, these wines are built on generations of local knowledge, passed down from father to son/daughter, where each grower tends their vines with their neighbour.

Fresh, honest wines with real drinkability, the kind of wines you want to open and enjoy, not overthink. The kind of bottles that feel at home on a Tuesday night or an alfresco lunch, yet with enough to strike the right note at a dinner party. Made by real people, at incredibly fair prices, they will deliver the type of satisfaction that keeps you coming back for more.

Sometimes, when you are searching for the right wine, it can become a bit of an obsession and that's exactly what happened when we set out to find a new Albariño. We were at a major trade tasting, deep in a sea of tasting tables, where we'd set ourselves a very specific (slightly mad) challenge of tasting the whole table of 80 Albariño's. So, we got to it, and tasted, and tasted... noting down wines that stood out, with palate fatigue starting to set in, we hit a wine that made us pause. It was from Bodegas Gallegas, a family run producer in Galicia, offering effortless blends of modern winemaking with traditional values. Zesty, citrus, white peach and a whisper of sea breeze with a clean mineral finish. It's everything we were looking for; fresh not sharp, expressive but not overpowering and endlessly drinkable. It was a hard day amongst the tasting tables... sometimes you really do have to taste 80 wines to find one that's worth sharing... so please do give it a try, you won't be disappointed.

At Bon Coeur some of the most exciting discoveries happen when we follow our instincts rather than the headlines. That's exactly how we came across Pegasus Bay, a family-owned estate tucked away in North Canterbury on New Zealand's South Island. Their of glossy California brands, this is very genuine. Great people, great farming and most importantly great wines. We challenge you not to be impressed.

Wine discoveries often happen when you least expect them. For us Teanum began with a chance conversation in Bordeaux during the En Primeur campaign. The Bon Coeur team were there, enjoying lunch catching up with growers and merchants when Nico our Dutch wine contact sat down to take a load off his weary feet. Nico is someone with a sharp palate, quick tongue and a knack for finding good wines at a good price. Between talk of the vintage and trends, Nico leaned into Jamie and said, “if you’re looking for something special from Italy offering good value for money, take a look at Teanum”. So, with that in mind when we arrived back to Yorkshire, Nico had been true to his word and a tasting case sat ready and waiting to be evaluated.

Teanum hails from the sun-soaked region of Puglia, in Italy’s south, beautiful and often under rated region, land of ancient vines, olive trees and dramatic coastal landscape. Upon tasting the wines, we were struck by their lovely balance of intensity and freshness. Rich, bold, Primitivo with dark fruits, warm spice, but with a freshness that offered a magical moreish moment. The native white wines of Fiano and Falanghina are delightful, full of southern Italian charm. These are the kind of wines that you reach for at the end of a long day, we are proud to recommend them to customers looking for something delicious and unpretentious. So, if you are looking for your next wine journey, take a cue from our Dutch friend Nico. Teanum may become your next go-to wine.

wines have a very distinct voice, the energy and clarity you would expect from New Zealand, with an impressive structure and savoury depth that reminds us of good Burgundy or Alsace wine.

Everything from their vineyard practices to their long, wild ferments shows a deep respect for the land and quiet confidence letting the wine speak for itself. What stands out is the balance. These wines aren’t chasing trends, they’re crafted with patience and care by the Donaldson family, pioneers of New Zealand winemaking. A real pleasure to drink, enjoy their silky Pinot Noir and their rich, aromatic Rieslings; these wines are worth discovering.

Our introduction to Shannon Family Wines wasn’t just about what was in the glass, it was about the team and the story behind the wines. Led by Founder Clay

Shannon, the estate is built on the belief that great wine starts with respect for the land. Champions of regenerative agriculture, planting over crops, preserving biodiversity and giving more back to the land that they take; it’s a wine story that’s captured in every glass. Intriguing, rugged, high elevation vineyards of Lake County offer volcanic soils and a real connection between place and wine; far away from the polished Napa tasting rooms, they produce refined, elegant wines with a charming complexity.

Discover their generous, confident Chardonnay, a serious challenge to Burgundy, this simply blew us away; as well as their beautifully bold and well-balanced Zinfandel, offering true energy with ripe blackberry and plums, well integrated soft oak notes with elevated spice. We are thrilled Jeronimo, Clay’s winemaker is featured in our Meet the Winemaker Series. In a world

Deciding to start a wine collection can be both exciting and overwhelming. Many clients ask “Where do I start?”. It can be a bit of a minefield, from understanding vintages and wine regions to deciding what to drink and what to lay down. At Bon Coeur we make this process simple, enjoyable and personal; a plan that reflects your tastes and goals.

Our experienced team is at the heart of what we do. We work closely with you, staying in touch, offering updates on your collection, market insights, exclusive fine wine releases and special wine collection club offers as well as invites to private tastings. Choose from either an annual or monthly subscription to suit your budget, and let us help you further understand wine and enjoy your wine collection journey.

Whether you’re collecting for pleasure, investment or future celebrations, our team led by Founder James Goodhart offers expert guidance on choosing the right wines. As you would expect, we focus on quality, provenance and long-term goals, from leading wine producers to rising stars, we are committed to bring you the very best in wine.

Most importantly, we’ll help you define a strategy that suits your budget and goals, then curate a bespoke pathway to achieve your wine collection. If you keep your collection in bond, you will be able to come and see your wines in situ in our on-site bonded warehouse, collect a few cases to drink from your collection and pick up some rosé for your house guests.

If you’re ready to start or simply want some advice on your current wine collection, do get in touch with James, or Ronald Buchanan; they’d love to help.

 It’s been so refreshing being able to work with Jamie and Ron, I now have a fully working wine collection, that’s a real reflection of myself. It’s such a pleasure sharing this with family and friends. Everyone is enjoying my new wine journey!

IN BOND STORAGE

Whether you are keeping wine as an investment or laying it down to drink; the way you store is paramount. The most important factors are to keep the wine at a constant temperature, in dry conditions with good relative humidity making sure it is secure. We are delighted to offer our clients wine storage services both In Bond and Duty Paid.

Our dedicated bonded wine warehouse is the perfect solution to your wine storage needs. Located at Moor Park, our purpose built, state-of-the-art, temperature-controlled warehouse is essential for fine wine storage. To support this core service, we have invested in a dedicated team to deliver all your storage requirements with both a personal and proactive approach.

If you would like to relocate your holdings to Moor Park from another bonded warehouse, please contact us for information on moving/consolidating your wines, our storage charges and services offered.

 I have been really impressed with the new fine wine storage facility at Moor Park it’s a real credit to you. I really enjoyed seeing my bonded wine in situ, it’s been a real help to consolidate my wine collection under one roof, thank you to the team for making the move go so smoothly and I look forward to collecting a few cases in person soon!

WINE LIFE WITH ANDREW RAY

Meet Andrew Ray, our Wine Buyer, who is as passionate about sourcing great wines as he is about food, travel, culture and languages. We sat down to discover how his love for all these things shapes his unique approach to wine and life.

Dream Dinner Guest

I think it must be Keith Floyd! I remember watching re-runs of him on Saturday Morning Kitchen and thinking he was rather eccentric and a bit of a loveable rogue. However, what struck me most was his passion for food, travel, and wine... of course! Perhaps it had a subconscious effect on me, and I think he would be great fun at a dinner party.

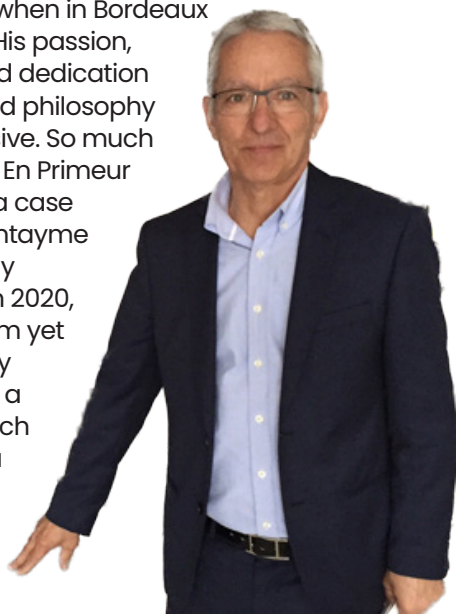

Top Travel Destination

I've been extremely fortunate to have travelled a lot on both a personal and professional level, though time and time again I'm drawn back to San Sebastián in the Basque Country, Spain. The food, wine, and culture are on another level... it's my happy place. If you want to know more, read our Insider's Guide on page 72!

Winemaking Legend

I was fortunate enough to meet Denis Durantou on a few occasions when in Bordeaux for En Primeur. His passion, enthusiasm and dedication for his wines and philosophy was so impressive. So much so, that my first En Primeur purchase was a case of Château Saintayme 2016. Denis sadly passed away in 2020, and although I'm yet to break into my case; I will raise a glass to him each time we open a bottle.

Wine lightbulb moment

La Rioja Alta Viña Ardanza Reserva Especial 2001 was the wine that quite literally changed my life. I was at the winery in Haro with head winemaker, Julio Sáenz, and upon my first sip it made me sit back and think wow. A real epiphany moment where the grapes, vintage and winemaking process as well as the sense of tradition and prestige all made sense. It was the glass that set in motion the domino effect that led me to where I am now...

Guilty Pleasure

Chilling down red wines on a hot summer's day... varietal depending, of course! I really enjoy Pinot Noir or Garnacha with a slight chill, which help emphasise the wines' pure fruit and juicy texture.

Discovering New Frontiers

Living abroad in France and Spain in my early twenties, made me quickly realise I had to get out of my comfort zone. It made me push myself to get things done and discover new experiences; I suppose I bring that side of me to work when searching for new regions, countries and wines. It's a big wine world out there with lots of new frontiers to discover...

Food & Wine Heaven

A crisp, vibrant Chablis with fresh seafood. So simple, yet hard to beat!

French Country

French Country offers a diverse range of fabulous quality wines at a great price. Let the famous 'Mistral' wind guide you from the Ardèche down toward Provence, where vineyards nestled along the coast bask in glorious sunshine reaching optimum ripeness. Further southwest you will discover the Languedoc-Roussillon; a historical coastal area which extends through the Pyrénées mountain range all the way to French Catalonia on the Spanish border.

This area is highly influenced by the Mediterranean Sea, where the cool sea breezes help regulate temperatures in the vineyard. There is a wide variety of both soils and grape varietals, which when combined, make French Country a very exciting area to discover.

DOMAINE DE MONTMARIN – LANGUEDOC

Domaine de Montmarin is owned by Philippe de Bertier and located amongst the rolling hills that run down to the Mediterranean in southern France. The Domaine covers around 350 hectares of land with over 120 hectares of planted vines. Charismatic and charming, Philippe makes exceptionally good and well-presented varietal Vin du Pays wines. We have a personal soft spot for Philippe's wines, having featured in our wine portfolio for over 20 years, praise indeed! Stylistically their Rosé could easily be mistaken for a Provence Rosé, their fresh whites and approachable red wines outperform many Vin de Pays wines of a higher price, like a loyal, old dog, not to be underestimated.

VIGNERONS ARDECHOIS – ARDÈCHE

Vignerons Ardechois is a pioneering cooperative in the southern Ardeche region of France. Founded in the 1960's, it is the culmination of 14 wineries, 6000-hectares of vines and many collaborating winemaking families. Situated between the Rhone Valley and the Cevennes Mountains, vines benefit from a Mediterranean climate with tempering diurnal range, producing vibrant and energetic wines. Their commitment to quality and sustainability (majority of vineyards HVE certified) has garnered many international awards. Now the next generation are embracing the old and introducing new winemaking techniques to produce good quality wines that stand out from the crowd.

LOUIS LATOUR – ARDÈCHE/VAR

It was back in the 1970s, when Louis Latour recognised the demand for high-quality, affordable wines. Successfully planting and cultivating vineyards beyond Burgundy's borders; today these vineyards are producing confident wines with signature styles. The Ardèche region offers the winemaker ideal conditions and soils for the cultivation of Chardonnay vines and further south in Var, high altitude vineyards were planted with Pinot Noir; to offer superb fresh wines, with great fruit character and personality. WINE BUYER'S NOTE

This is a stellar Sancerre with lots of lemon and gooseberry with a touch of wild fennel. Grapes are sourced from a blend of parcels on varying soils (Terres Blanches, Silex and Caillottes) throughout the Sancerre appellation which add structure, intensity and complexity. The wine is fermented in stainless steel and then aged on lees for several months in barrels, concrete, or amphorae to add weight and texture, yet still retains wonderful vibrancy and energy. Bravo!

DOMAINE PAUL THOMAS

Domaine Paul Thomas is a small winery found on the slopes of Les Mont Damnés, a famous hill to the east of Chavignol village in Sancerre. Founded in 2000, Raphaël and Claire now run the estate and produce some seriously good Sancerre Blanc and Rouge from 6 hectares of vines on a deep, pure outcrop of Kimmeridgian limestone that gives the wines excellent concentration, purity and minerality.

CHÂTEAU DE TRACY

Château de Tracy has been run by the same family since the 14th Century, a tradition which continues to the present day with Henry de Tracy. The Domaine consists of 33 hectares of vines on the flinty slopes that surround the property, as well as those on the famous Kimmeridgian clay-limestone in Vilmoy a few kilometres away. Attention to detail is key as only the best grapes are selected plot by plot and transported to the winery, which are pressed, vinified and aged on lees to add texture, richness and depth to the wines.

BARON DE LADOUCETTE

The Ladoucette family have been producing wines for over 600 years from their 165 hectare estate of Château du Nozet in Pouilly-Fumé, and are recognised for producing some of the world's finest Sauvignon Blanc from the Loire Valley. Under the watchful eye of Patrick de Ladoucette who took over the family's wine operation in 1972 at the tender age of 20, the world-wide demand for these wines make him one of the most influential wine makers in the Loire.

Rhône Valley

Located in South-East France, the Rhône Valley stretches almost 150 miles from Vienne close to the Alps all the way to Nîmes in the south, near the Mediterranean Sea. Naturally, for a winemaking region of such size there are many climatic, geographical and geological differences from the steep-sloping, terraced hillsides of Cornas, Saint-Joseph, Hermitage and Crozes-Hermitage in the north to the flatter, pebble-dominated plains of Châteauneuf-du-Pape, Gigondas and Vacqueyras in the south.

From single varietal Syrah (a.k.a Shiraz) fine wines to a focus on specific blends made from Grenache, Cinsault, and Mourvèdre for reds as well as Viognier, Marsanne and Roussane for whites, we highly recommend re-visiting the Rhône Valley.

Le Pigeonnier Côtes du Rhône 2022

LES VIGNOBLES FONCALIEU

Le Pigeonnier is produced in the village of Richerenches, set on the left bank of the Rhône in the Enclave des Papes region. The terroir is composed of red clay hillsides with varying concentrations of pebbles in the topsoil. The vines are planted on terraces, producing wines of great aromatic power with smooth, silky tannins.

WINE BUYER'S NOTE

Le Rouvre is a selection of the oldest vines from a splendidly sited parcel in the south of the Crozes-Hermitage. To add a delicate complexity without overpowering the fruit, the wine is aged in large 600-litre barrels known as demi-muids, which creates fragrant aromas of bramble fruit with a smoky undertones. Vivid and richly concentrated core of further dark black fruit and black pepper spice on the long, savoury finish. A rousing Southern Rhône that vies with many top Châteauneuf-du-Pape.

Burgundy

WHITE BURGUNDY

The heartland for White Burgundy lies in the Côte de Beaune, where interest has always been focused on the famous villages of Meursault, Chassagne-Montrachet, Puligny-Montrachet and Corton. In recent years as prices continue to rise, areas such as Saint-Aubin, Savigny-les-Beaune and Pernand-Vergelesses have improved both in status recognition and quality. Further south in the Mâconnais, Pouilly-Fuissé and Saint-Véran as well as Montagny in the Côte Chalonnaise, all offer great value for money and are definitely worth the detour to discover.

RED BURGUNDY

The emphasis for Red Burgundy is in the Côte de Nuits around the villages of Gevrey-Chambertin as well as Nuits-Saint-Georges and Corton. There is increasing popularity (and price) in both Chambolle-Musigny and Vosne-Romanée due to their charming and luscious nature. In addition, there is also heightened interest in the communes of Volnay, Pommard, Savigny-les-Beaune and Saint-Romain in the Côte de Beaune, which are becoming more attractive and fashionable. Don't overlook the Gamay based region of Beaujolais in the far south where villages such as Fleurie, Brouilly and Morgon seriously over-deliver in terms of value and quality.

BURGUNDY

CHABLIS

Chablis is geographically and climatically closer to Champagne than Burgundy, and as a result produces a leaner style of Chardonnay with usually less emphasis on oak. The combination of a cool climate as well as the famous Kimmeridgian limestone soil, creates a range of wine styles from fresh and pure Petit Chablis and Chablis to linear and precise Premier Cru and Grand Cru Chablis.

SÉGUINOT-BORDET

Domaine Séguinot-Bordet is the oldest producer in Chablis with records dating back to 1590. They have 20 hectares under vines with 2.5 hectares in Petit Chablis, 16 hectares in Chablis and 1.5 hectares of Premier Cru. Jean-François Bordet, the youngest of the family, places particular emphasis on obtaining the best fruit possible, through careful pruning, debudding and harvesting. Cool fermentation, allows the wines to mature for 2-5 months on their lees; this maximises the grape skin contact and promotes a luscious style to the wines.

WINE BUYER'S NOTE

Grapes come from south and southeastern facing plots near the village of Maligny, where vines have an average age of 25 to 40 year old grown on the iconic Kimmeridgian clay. As a result this is a classic Chablis with aromas and flavours of lemon citrus and green apple with pure, precise acidity and underlying flinty finish.

BURGUNDY

MÂCONNAIS

The Mâconnais is found at the southern tip of Burgundy, located in between the villages of Tournus and Saint-Véran. The Mediterranean climate plays a major role in the region, which helps produce well-structured and ripe Chardonnay-based wines from Mâcon-Villages to Saint-Véran, Pouilly-Fuissé and Viré-Clessé. As prices continue to rise in the Côte de Beaune, it's worth revisiting the Mâconnais.

CAVE DE LUGNY (LUGNY)

The biggest cooperative in the Mâconnais who often sell their wines to better known négociants, whilst offering exceptional value. The Mâcon-Lugny is a special cuvée that comes from one of the best vineyards in the commune of Lugny. The vineyard has a west side exposure on mainly chalk soils, which results in slower ripening of the fruit helping maintain freshness, and the chalk adds a creamy texture to the wine.

Mâcon-Uchizy is a blend of Chardonnay sourced from 3 separate parcels around the village of Uchizy on limestone-clay soils. The cooling affect of the Saone River helps retain acidity and freshness to create a bright, vibrant wine with an abundance of citrus and white stone fruit. There's a touch of creaminess on the palate despite not seeing any oak, which adds balance and structure to the wine. This always delivers on value for money, it's just so hard to beat. There is no denying that our best-selling White Burgundy, and it's easy to see why!

SAUMAIZE-MICHELIN (POUILLY-FUISSÉ)

Saumaize-Michelin was created in 1977, when Roger Saumaize received 4-hectares of vines in Vergisson (the heart of the Pouilly-Fuissé appellation). A year later in 1978, he fully took over his father's estate. Over the subsequent decades along with his wife Christine (whose maiden surname is Michelin, hence the winery name), they have naturally increased vineyard holdings throughout Mâcon, Saint-Véran, and Pouilly-Fuissé to its current holding of 9.5-hectares. The estate has been producing wines according to biodynamic principles since 2005, and as a result, the old vines (40 to 45 years old) are naturally low-yielding and disease-resistant, resulting in wines with increased complexity.

Wine critics and writers such as Neal Martin (Vinous), William Kelley (Wine Advocate), and Allen Meadows (Burghound) confidently place Saumaize-Michelin alongside iconic Pouilly-Fuissé producers such as Jean-Marie Guffens-Heynen and Daniel Barraud. We have been loyal supporters of Saumaize-Michelin for several years; however, we were simply blown away by the quality of the 2022s when tasted at the Domaine with Roger; it is the best vintage yet.

Roger developed the family Domaine in the 1970s through buying and planting land in Rully, which has now come to fruition as most of the vines are over 40 years-old and are producing some excellent wines. Claudie took charge of the estate in 2002, after graduating from her oenology degree, and changed the direction of the Domaine by stopping selling to négociants, and instead started a new venture by bottling wines under her own name.

The Chardonnay for this Bourgogne Blanc is a combination of four parcels that total roughly 2-hectares from 75-year-old vines throughout Puligny-Montrachet and Meursault. Fresh and intense with zingy, vivid acidity that emphasises the seamless tension, purity, and poise. If tasted blind, it could easily be mistaken for a young Puligny-Montrachet!

JOSEPH PASCAL (PULIGNY-MONTRACHET)

A true family affair as the Domaine started in the 1950s when Jean Pascal (who worked at Domaine Leflaive at the time) started buying up parcels of land with his wife Céline. Later in 1970s, their son Jean-Luc joined them and formed Domaine Jean Pascal et Fils, followed by their son, Jean-Luc, and his wife Alexandra in the early 2000s. Fast-forward to today and the Pascal estate is now named after the next generation: Joseph Pascal. Their 15-hectares of vines makes them one of the larger properties in Puligny-Montrachet, however, there is no compromise on quality with the crop now being vinified and bottled at the Domaine.

BZIKOT PÈRE ET FILS (PULIGNY-MONTRACHET)

Sylvain Bzikot's grandfather fled Poland and arrived in Burgundy just before the Second World War, and in time, steadily built up the Domaine in the post-war years when land was plentiful and cheap. Sylvain and his wife, Béatrice, now tend 14-hectares of vines in Puligny-Montrachet, including the Premier Cru sites 'Les Folatières' and 'Les Perrières', as well as the famous lieu-dit 'La Rousselle'. For a long time, most of the crop was sold in bulk to négociants, until Sylvain's arrival in the 1990s, when he took the decision to bottle under the name Domaine Bzikot Père et Fils. They also produce wines from grapes purchased and jointly managed from trusted, long-term contracted growers through their négociant label: Sylvain Bzikot.

VINCENT LATOUR (MEURSAULT)

The Latour-Labille family boast a long, rich history and have been making wine in Meursault since 1792! Vincent Latour took over the family Domaine in 1998 from his father Jean, and then when joined by his wife, Cécile, changed the name from Domaine Jean Latour et Labille, to Domaine Latour from the 2010 vintage. Since his arrival Vincent has implemented many changes, and in turn improvements, and we are delighted to add Vincent Latour to our portfolio.

JEAN-JACQUES GIRARD (SAVIGNY-LES-BEAUNE)

The Girard family have been cultivating vines in Savigny-les-Beaune since 1529. Almost 500 years and seven generations later, Jean-Jacques Girard started his own domaine after splitting the family estate with his brother prior to the 1998 vintage. Gradual vineyard expansion combined with traditional know-how and new technology has seen Jean-Jacques produce exquisite wines year upon year.

CÔTE DE NUITS

The Côte de Nuits forms the northern half of the famous Côte d'Or ('golden slope'), and stretches for roughly 20km from Dijon in the north to Corgoloin in the south. Pinot Noir is the main grape variety and crafts a vast range of styles from the elegant and refined Chambolle-Musigny and Vosne-Romanée, to the more structured and robust wines of Gevrey-Chambertin, Morey-St-Denis and Vougeot.

MAISON ROCHE DE BELLENE (BEAUNE)

Nicolas Potel is known to be an excellent source for some of the finest Burgundian wines. In 2009, he created his own négociant business Maison Roche de Bellene in Beaune, with a focus on respecting and representing the natural character and identity of each vineyard. Nicolas crafts modern, luscious and seductive wines especially at the Village level, which are naturally crowd pleasers and even Jancis Robinson MW is a big fan... he is therefore no longer our little secret!

AN INSIDER'S GUIDE TO BEAUNE

Referred to as the “Capital of Burgundy wines” the medieval city of Beaune has been the centre of the Côte d’Or wine industry for centuries. The cobbled streets, patterned rooftops and iconic Hospices de Beaune are as legendary as the wines that come from the surrounding vineyards along the Routes des Grands Crus. Over many years of travelling to the region for En Primeur (tasting the previous years’ vintage direct from barrel), the Bon Coeur buying team have built up a little black book of the hottest addresses and need to know establishments to make your visit one to remember. Allez!

What started as a chance encounter, has become a Bon Coeur rite of passage as tradition now dictates that upon arrival in Beaune, we head straight to Piqu’Boeuf. The Broin family have been serving up some of the best traditional regional cuisine and finest Charolais beef since 1990. From œufs en meurette and jambon persillé to escargot (if you dare!) to start followed by the main event: bavette, entrecôte, filet or côte de boeuf... the choice is yours. Expertly cooked over one of the most impressive open fire grills we’ve ever seen. Hot tip: if you’re a fan of mushrooms then order the Morel mushroom sauce: hear us now, thank us later! There is an equally commendable wine list from alternative appellations and up and coming Domaines, to prestige producers from classic communes... all at smart prices.

Just around the corner from Piqu’Boeuf and a stones’ throw from the town centre is Les Caves Madeleine. This is a firm favourite with many in the wine trade and it’s here you will find the great and the good flocking for tables during both holidays and Primeurs week alike for its relaxed service, brilliant wine list, and innovative dishes crafted by chef-proprietor Martial Blanchon. A reservation is a must, especially if you plan to visit during the Hospices de Beaune auction!

Another restaurant that we visit repeatedly is Le Maufoux. The set menu is simple, concise, and seasonal, changing every six weeks with a heavy focus on local produce. Laurianne runs the show and describes the cuisine as “traditional dishes cooked just like at home”. Nevertheless, it’s the wine list that really draws people in, their close relationship with many top estates allows them to offer the very best wines at reasonable prices, giving people the opportunity to discover regional gems without emptying your bank account. Vincent Dauvissat Chablis, Domaine Roulot Meursault or Jacques-Frédéric Mugnier Nuits-Saint-Georges Clos de la Maréchale at fair prices? Bien sûr... that’s the Le Maufoux philosophy!

For the best table in Beaune then you must take a trip to the moon. Not literally, of course. La Lune is a highly coveted, tiny 18-seater restaurant that opened in 2014 and has been on a meteoric rise ever since. There is no denying this French Japanese fusion restaurant with Chef-proprietor, Seiichi Hirobe, and Maître d’, Julien Martin, at the helm is the hottest address in town. So, pre-booking (sometimes) months in advance is necessary. They do take late night walk-ins but only once the first sittings have been and gone, but we wouldn’t take the risk. It’s also Vinous’ Neal Martin’s favourite place to dine when in Burgundy too.

If you’re considering somewhere to enjoy just a glass of wine and some small plates, then it’s worth trying your luck at La Dilettante. This relaxed, rather laid-back wine bar has a great selection of natural and traditional wines, by both the glass and bottle, that can be enjoyed with an assiette or two of classic charcuterie and fantastic fromage. For the real wine lovers, however, then Maison du Colombier and La Cave du Bout du Monde should be on your hitlist. With thousands of references from Champagne to Burgundy, Bordeaux and beyond... there’s something for everyone to enjoy. Hot tip: if you’re feeling peckish, don’t hesitate to ask for the truffled Croque Monsieur at La Cave du Bout du Monde... Mon dieu, you won’t be disappointed.

No trip to the region would be complete without visiting vineyards throughout the Côte de Beaune and Côte de Nuits. If you happen to be passing Meursault, then a visit to Au Fil du Clos comes highly recommended. Chef Jean-Christophe Moutet is a proud Burgundian and offers several set menus as well as à la carte dishes, showcasing the very best the regional produce in a refined and modern manner. The restaurant itself is set in his old family home in the heart of the village, with a stunning 180-degree view of the surrounding vines and Cistercian tower in the old clos. The wine list is as good as the view, and that takes some beating!

We’re always searching for new additions to our little black book, so on a recent trip we were delighted to stumble upon Le Meuzinc on the outskirts of Nuits-Saint-Georges. And what a hidden gem. Formerly known as Le Sanglier (the wild boar), it’s been a restaurant for more than a century... if only the walls could talk! Nowadays it boasts a modern, vibrant décor and is run by Chef Pierre de Vialet, who refers to his cooking style as bistronomic: fine and inventive, yet in a simple and unfussy setting.

If you’re looking for somewhere special, then look no further than Rôtisserie du Chambertin in Gevrey-Chambertin. The Michelin starred restaurant Table d’Hôte is headed up by Lucie and Thomas Collomb, who craft an expertly executed seasonal tasting menu. And we mean seasonal, it changes roughly every fortnight, so only the best produce is used at it’s very peak! And the wine list? Make sure you arrive thirty minutes early to give yourself enough time to choose the perfect bottle. It’s worth noting that there is also a more casual offering at Rotisserie du Chambertin too, in the form of the Bib Gourmand bistro Lucien. The service is still warm and attentive, yet in a slightly more relaxed environment. The food is classic Burgundy with a rather lavish wine list to boot. Santé!

There’s nothing left to do now but book your flights and accommodation. Bon voyage!

We hope you enjoy our insider’s guide to Beaune. Scan the code for more insider’s guides...

DANIEL RION (NUITS-SAINT-GEORGES)

Daniel Rion created the Domaine in 1955 when he inherited 2 hectares of vines from his father. It is still a family run estate and has been under the careful watch of his children Olivier, Christophe and Pascale Rion since 2000. Today the Domaine consists of 18 hectares of vines throughout six villages in the Côte de Nuits, namely Nuits Saint Georges, Vosne-Romanée and Chambolle-Musigny. The vines vary in age from 25 years up to 60 years old, and are selected for their high-quality fruit; small berries with thick skins that produce aromatic, fine and well-structured wines.

BEAUJOLAIS

Beaujolais lies to the south of Burgundy, covering 20,000+ hectares of vines between Mâcon and Lyon. It is predominantly planted with Gamay producing red wines from fresh, fruity and vibrant Beaujolais and Beaujolais villages, to more concentrated and complex wines from the Cru vineyards of Brouilly, Saint-Amour, Fleurie and Morgon.

STÉPHANE AVIRON

The philosophy of Stéphane Aviron is to balance the richness of Beaujolais terroirs with the barrel ageing tradition, to obtain concentration, elegance and deepness for each wine according to the different types of terroir. The wines speak for themselves, offering much more depth and structure than normally associated with Beaujolais.

Bordeaux

Thanks to its maritime climate, temperate winters and long, warm summers, Bordeaux is capable of producing some of the greatest wines and has often been referred to as the centre of the Fine Wine world. There is a wealth of diversity in terroir over the 120,000 hectares of vines divided by the Garonne and Dordogne rivers, where production is predominantly suited to red. Nevertheless, there are also fantastic whites from Entre-deux-Mers, as well as excellent sweet wines from Sauternes and Barsac that are both well worth discovering.

On the 'Right Bank' most of the wines are Merlot dominated in areas such as Saint-Émilion and Pomerol, who steal the headlines for their ripeness and approachability. However, appellations such as Sainte-Radegonde, Côte de Castillon, and Lalande-de-Pomerol can overdeliver in terms of quality and price.

On the 'Left Bank' wines are mainly Cabernet Sauvignon dominated blends with the addition of Merlot, Cabernet Franc and Petit Verdot. The communes of Saint-Estèphe, Pauillac, Saint-Julien, Margaux as well as Pessac-Léognan take centre stage though don't overlook Cru Bourgeois and Petits Châteaux properties, as they are sources of some of the best value Clarets.

Les Tours de Beaumont,
Haut-Médoc 2016 NEW

CHÂTEAU BEAUMONT, CUSSAC-FORT-MÉDOC

Château Beaumont is one of the largest estates in the Médoc nestled in between the communes of Margaux and Saint-Julien. It draws finesse and delicacy from the deep gravels soils that are some of the best in the Haut-Médoc. The estate was purchased in 1986 by Grandes Millésimes de France (who also own Châteaux Beychevelle and Lagrange in Saint-Julien) and have overseen its rise to become one of the most reliable sources of Cru Bourgeois Claret. Les Tours de Beaumont is its superb second wine that offers great value for money.

Château Sénéjac is one of the most famous Cru Bourgeois estates in the Haut-Médoc, located on the border of the Margaux appellation to the south of the appellation. The estate was purchased in 1999 by Lorraine Cordier who ran it until her untimely death in 2011. It has since been under the watchful eye of her sister, Nancy Bignon-Cordier with Alfred Tesseron and his team oversee the 39-hectare, one block vineyard as well as all the winemaking (responsible for Pauillac's Château Pontet Canet no less.) This is very much an estate on the rise and has been one of our "one's to watch" over the last few years. A source of cracking Claret.

MEET THE WINEMAKER

Anabelle Cruse-Bardinet CHÂTEAU CORBIN

Describe yourself in 3 words...

Grounded, determined, meticulous.

How did you get started in the wine trade?

I studied oenology at university, but more importantly I was born into a family of winegrowers; my father from the Médoc, my mother from Saint-Émilion. I started my career at Château Brancaire Ducru in Saint-Julien!

Briefly describe the château and its vineyards:

Corbin is steeped in history as it is a 15th century Lordship, with 13-hectares of vineyards that my family acquired in 1924. It has subsequently been passed down the female line for four generations. The vineyards are in the commune of Saint-Émilion on the border with Pomerol, and planted with Merlot and Cabernet Franc, spread over a soil of clay and sandy gravel on a clay subsoil. The vines are treated with the greatest care and attention to detail in a quest for balance and respect for their ecosystem.

Who has influenced your wine making style the most?

My teachers, my family, my tastes... a search for purity.

What is the best wine you have made at the Château?

The next vintage! I love them all due to the individual character of each one. The distinctiveness of Corbin can be found in the wines aromatic appeal, where it combines purity, radiance, a velvety texture, great length as well as emotion all in complete harmony with the vintage.

If you had to recommend one of your wines, which would it be?

And why?

To drink today? That's a difficult one, however, if I had to, I would choose 2014 as it now has 10 years bottle age and a beautiful delicateness, then 2015 for its expressive red fruit, 2018 for its silkiness and velvety richness, and 2019 for its vibrancy... I like many for various reasons!

Do you have any winemaking goals you are still working to achieve?

Our objective is obtaining balance in every vintage and the search for excellent aromatic purity. For this, a lot of precision is needed at each stage of the process such as the date of picking, densimetric sorting, gentle extraction...

Are you implementing any measures in the vineyard or winery to improve the winemaking process?

Yes! As mentioned, we have used densimetric sorting since the 2021 vintage; it's a fantastic innovation that uses essentially a sugar-water solution to separate the ripe from unripe berries before fermentation, keeping only the best fruit. Due to such effective sorting, we no longer produce a second wine. We focus all our efforts on making the very best quality Corbin possible.

We don't use sulphites during fermentation either for more purity and precision. Sulphites are now added much later into the process, when wine has been "built" and with less impact.

Finally, it's worth noting that we also use different vessels to age our wine from glass globes to small cement tanks as well as traditional oak barrels of course. The aim is to bring more complexity and preserve pure fruit profile.

What does the future hold for Château Corbin?

My objectives are the transmission of our know-how, the respect of our terroir and its ecosystem, as well as a continued search for purity.

Has climate change impacted your winemaking?

Definitely. We want to preserve the freshness of the fruit that comes from the vineyard and bring it to the consumer into the bottle. Our vintages are all different with more personality than ever before, yet with Corbin's DNA running through them all. We need to observe everything with surgical precision and manage each vintage by adapting our process to reveal all their personality. We are also very precise on the picking dates for each individual plot, which is then maintained in the cellar by plot-by-plot vinification. It's hard work; however, we feel it's worth all the effort in the final wine.

If you could do a collaboration with another winemaker or producer, who would it be and why?

Marielle Cazaux is a wonderful winemaker, and I have a lot of admiration for her work at La Conseillante. She is a very good "farmer" and takes care of the vines as if they were her children. She also has incredible knowledge, and this is transmitted in her wines; they are so pure and precise... I like them a lot!

If you could make wine anywhere else in the world, where would it be?

In Pomerol.

What is your favourite wine bar or restaurant?

My husband's wine cellar!

Sparkling Wine

There are several methods for creating sparkling wines such as Tank, Transfer, Ancestral, and Traditional. The most well-known and appreciated is, of course, the Traditional Method (also referred to as Méthode Champenoise); thanks to its secondary fermentation and ageing in bottle creating rich and complex sparkling wines with a delicate mousse. Cava, Cap Classique, Crémant, Champagne, as well as some English Sparkling wines, are great examples of this style.

The Tank Method (also known as Charmat Method), on the other hand differs due to the secondary fermentation taking place in a large tank for a short amount of time. It is then bottled with no ageing to produce light, vibrant, and more fruit forward sparkling wines. Prosecco, Lambrusco, Asti, and some English Sparkling wines are brilliant examples of this category.

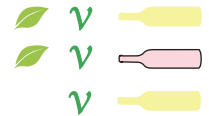

There's certainly a type of sparkling wine for everyone to enjoy; discover your new favourite today!

Champagne

Situated in North-East of France some 90 miles east of Paris, the Champagne region boasts 34,300 hectares of vines tended by almost 16,000 growers! Unsurprisingly, with an area of such size there are two distinct climatic influences (oceanic and continental) as well as geological (chalk, marl, and limestone) as well as topographical variations (12-59% slope gradient) between the five main sub-zones of the Côte des Blancs, Côte de Sézanne, Montagne de Reims, Vallée de la Marne and the Aube, which each produce unique styles of Champagne.

The main grape varieties are, of course, Chardonnay, Pinot Noir, and Pinot Meunier with some smaller, artisan producers who use Pinot Blanc, Pinot Gris, Petit Meslier, and Arbane. All Champagne undergo the time and tested traditional method production, by which there are two fermentations; the first in tank, and the second in bottle, to create this classic fizz we all know and love. Whether you prefer Non-Vintage or Vintage, Rosé or Blanc de Blancs, or even Prestige Cuvée... there's a Champagne for everyone to enjoy!

NON-VINTAGE CHAMPAGNE

Non-Vintage (NV) is the most popular Champagne category and a blend of the three main varieties; Chardonnay, Pinot Noir and Pinot Meunier from various vintages to create a "house style". Year upon year the Chef de Cave (winemaker or cellar master) will adjust the blend accordingly from the reserve wines available to produce a Champagne that is in keeping with the house style, whilst maintaining the highest quality standards. Non-Vintage Champagnes must be aged for a minimum of 15 months on the lees, which produces balanced and elegant wines that can develop more intensity and concentration when aged.

JACQUES BONCOEUR

Our family Champagne, Jacques Boncoeur, was registered with the Champagne Board (CIVC) in 2001 and is produced exclusively for Bon Coeur by one of the leading co-operatives in the region. A blend of Pinot Noir and Chardonnay hand-selected by founder, James Goodhart, is aged for a minimum of 3 years (much more than the minimum 15 months AOC requirements) on lees to ensure the perfect conditions to produce a complex, yet elegant and charming Champagne. No surprise it's our best-selling Champagne and has won many awards over the years. Recently it has been given the seal of approval from esteemed wine critics such as Joanna Simon and Jancis Robinson MW!

ROSÉ CHAMPAGNE

Rosé Champagne has increased in popularity over recent years, and rightly so! Interestingly, Champagne is one of the few places in world where you are legally allowed blend red and white still wines to make rosé. Typically, winemakers blend about 15% still red wine (from Pinot Noir or Pinot Meunier) into the final wine. Alternatively, the "saignée" ("bleeding") method is also popular and consists of the must having minimal skin contact, generally for only a couple of hours before blending. This low maceration technique allows the must to develop stronger aromas and flavours while simultaneously deepening the colour. However, don't be fooled by the colour as Rosé Champagnes are powerful and really pack a flavourful punch.

VINTAGE CHAMPAGNE

The ultimate expression of Champagne which is richer, fuller and perfect for special celebrations! Vintage Champagne is made only in the very best harvests, where the highest quality is all but guaranteed; normally only declared three or four times per decade. Made in the same way as Non-Vintage Champagne with the exception that instead of a blend of different base wines, 100% of the grapes come from just the one particular year. By law, Vintage Champagne must spend a minimum three years on its lees, however, many of the Grande Marque Champagne Houses cellar and age their wines for upwards of five to ten years. Works wonders with the richness and earthiness of wild mushroom and truffle risotto, or try with pan fried langoustine.

England

Wine grape cultivation in the UK goes back to Roman times, however, the cold, wet climate has always been a major hurdle to producing wines of significant quality. Thankfully, the English wine industry has undergone a sizeable revolution in the last fifty years, and can now proudly claim to be a global contender, particularly when it comes to Sparkling wine. The classic varietals of Pinot Noir, Pinot Meunier, and Chardonnay are used to create traditional method sparkling wines, made in the same way as those from Champagne. Good quality red, white and rose still wines are also crafted from Pinot Noir, Chardonnay, Sauvignon Blanc, and Pinot Gris, as well as lesser known varietals such as Sylvaner and Bacchus; England's alternative to Sauvignon Blanc!

The best vineyards in England are found in the southern counties including Kent, Sussex, Surrey, Hampshire, Dorset and Cornwall where the chalky, limestone-rich soils (similar to those in Chablis and Champagne), and the warming effect of the Gulf Stream help create a unique climate for grape growing. The recent succession of hot summers in Southern England has produced some stellar vintages, which have produced English wines that can now go toe to toe with many established countries in international competitions for both still, and sparkling wines. Rule Britannia!

Alsace & Germany

ALSACE

GERMANY

Situated on the French–German border of north–eastern France, Alsace is governed by two natural boundaries; the Vosges mountains and the Rhine river. Gentle slopes and extensive, warm summers produce complex wines made from Pinot Blanc, Gewurztraminer and Riesling.

In neighbouring Germany, the Mosel is also dictated by a slightly more challenging terrain; steep slopes and close proximity to the river provide ideal conditions for dry to super-sweet Riesling (and everything in between!).

Further south in the underrated region of Pfalz, obsessive care and attention to detail results in fruity, easy-drinking and approachable wines.

JOSEPH CATTIN – ALSACE

Owning more than 65 hectares of vines, the Cattin family are one of the largest family-owned estates in Alsace. Founded in 1720 by François Cattin, a further 11 generations have followed suit, and the family legacy is secured for years to come with Jacques Cattin now at the helm. The jewel in their crown is the historical Grand Cru Hatschbourg vineyard producing the classic Alsatian varietals of Muscat, Pinot Gris, Gewurztraminer and Riesling.

Their wines are typically Alsatian boasting wonderful fruit purity, uplifting acidity and seamless balance, which has seen the estate become a trusted and respected source of great quality wines.

VILLA WOLF – PFALZ

Founded in 1756, the JL Wolf estate was a very successful and highly regarded winery for more than two centuries. Sadly, in the latter half of the 19th century it was then neglected for many years until 1996, when Ernst Loosen (of Dr Loosen fame), took over the vineyards and launched a dramatic turnaround in the estate's reputation and quality. Ernst knew the value and potential of the vineyards and under the guidance of Patrick Moellendorf, quality wines with wonderful purity and vibrancy are produced.

MEET THE WINEMAKER

Ernst Loosen DR LOOSEN

Describe yourself in 3 words...

Curious. Determined. Impassioned.

How did you get started in the wine trade?

When I was young, I liked wine and had been to the winemaking school in Geisenheim, but I wasn't really interested in going into the wine business. I was more interested in archeology and Roman history. But when I was studying archeology at the University of Mainz, my father fell seriously ill. My mother issued an ultimatum to the family: one of you kids must take over the wine estate, or we'll sell off the vineyards. With no real employment prospects as an archeologist, I was the only one in a position to take it on. So, I did it. That was 37 years ago!

What has surprised you about being a winemaker?

The truly surprising thing was just how simple it is to make a great wine. A lot of work goes into it, of course, but with minimal-intervention winemaking, the process is not very complicated. You just need to pick good-quality fruit, maintain a clean cellar, and let nature do the work. The real challenge is in selling the wines once you've made them!

Provide a brief description of the winery and vineyards?

Our family has been growing and producing wine for over 220 years. When I took over the estate, I inherited some wonderful old vineyards, with ungrafted vines up to 130 years old. Since then, we have acquired more vineyards and now have holdings in 11 top-rated Grosse Lage sites in the Middle Mosel, as well in several Erste Lage and village sites. From the beginning, our idea was to focus on those Grosse Lage vineyards, to produce the best wines possible and to bring back the concept of vineyard classification, which had been abandoned with the 1971 German wine law.

Are you implementing any measures in the vineyard or winery to make the winemaking process more environmentally friendly?

You know, for 2,000 years of wine making and wine growing on the Mosel they didn't employ fertilisation. So, we have been going back to this old way of thinking. Let nature do things itself a little bit more. Also with the wine making, it's exactly the same. These are all the things I have been implementing; trying to find out what they did 130 years ago. There must be a reason that Mosel wines were the once the most expensive in the world, two or three times more expensive than Châteaux Latour and Margaux.

How has climate change impacted your winemaking?

An important topic! So far, to be perfectly honest, the warming climate has been good for winegrowers in Germany. We've had to adapt our viticulture and harvest decisions, naturally, but right now we are enjoying an exceptional run of fully ripe vintages, which were not very common, even just 50 years ago. The big question, of course, is where will we be in another 50 years?

I have many more thoughts on this topic, which you can read in my "Thoughts on Climate Change" – please ask Bon Coeur for a copy!

How do you know when you have a particularly good vintage on your hands?

Even if everything looks perfect during the growing season and the harvest, you can never really be sure about the quality of a vintage until you have the finished wines in your glass. But it's only with some age that you see the greatness of a vintage. My grandfather always told me that you need at least 10 years for a wine to truly show you how great it will be.

What are your thoughts on the perception of German (and/or Mosel) wines in today's fine wine market?

I've been running around for over 30 years preaching about Riesling and it's slowly coming back to the high reputation it had at the beginning of the 20th century. Riesling is still a small part of the wine market, however, and probably always will be. But we'll keep on preaching about the amazing diversity and versatility of Riesling – it truly is a remarkable grape and people usually love it if you can just get them to try it.

In particular, high-quality dry-style German Rieslings are gaining in popularity around the world as today's consumers discover how versatile, full-flavoured and food-friendly they are. However, while modern palates tend to prefer dry wines overall, there is still a larger quantity of off-dry Riesling sold globally. But no matter the style, Riesling is deeply satisfying for wine lovers who prefer intensely aromatic wines with energy, pure flavours and a crisp, refreshing finish.

What is your favourite restaurant, and why?

Any restaurant that has great food! There are many great restaurants that I love, so it's impossible to choose just one. But a local example of the type of restaurant that I prefer is Schanz in Piesport. What I like about it is the elegance and precision of the cooking and the fact that they focus on fish dishes. The food is just brilliant, the dishes beautifully prepared and from start to finish just absolutely delicious.

What is your favourite wine, and who would you share it with?

I have a cellar full of favourites and I love to share them with friends over dinner at home.

Central Europe

AUSTRIA

ROMANIA

Austria is landlocked on all sides, however, most of the wine growing regions are in the east of the country, where geological and climatic conditions are more favourable for production of high-quality wine such as fresh, mineral Gruner Veltliner and Riesling, as well as fruit-forward, luscious reds from Zweigelt and St. Laurent.

Hungary is one of the oldest and most important wine producing regions and is famous for the deliciously sweet, unctuous wines of Tokaji. Nevertheless, there has been a revolution in recent years and a new wave of producers have been using modern techniques and facilities to craft bright, vibrant dry white wines from native grapes such as Furmint, Hárslevelű and Sárgamuskotály.

Romania has been making wine for centuries and is one of the biggest producers in Europe, yet until recently very little was exported. How times are changing, and with it, there are some fantastic wines to be discovered from international varieties like Sauvignon Blanc and Pinot Noir, to the indigenous grapes Fetească Regală and Fetească Neagră.

ALLRAM – KAMPTAL

The Allram estate is situated in the heart of the Kamptal region and the picturesque village of Strass, where it has been run by Michaela Haas-Allram and her husband, Eric Haas, since 1992 after taking over from her parents. Now the third generation are beginning to take the reigns as their son Lorenz now helps run the vineyard and cellar, under the watchful eye of founder and grandfather, Walter Allram. Their mission is simple; to use all three generations viticultural knowledge as well as state of the art technology to produce organic, high quality wines.

WINE BUYER'S NOTE

This is an excellent example of Grüner Veltliner from one of Austria's top producers. Grapes are sourced from the steep, terraced vineyards that straddle the Danube and bask in the midday sun, so, as you would expect there's an abundance of citrus and tropical stone fruit complemented by a delicate herbal edge. Fresh, crisp, and clean with a focused, mineral finish laden with white pepper spice. If you like Chablis, give this a go!

MARKUS HUBER – TRAISENTAL

The Huber family has been farming in the lower Austrian region of Traisental since the 17th Century, where the coolest climate in the whole country provides the perfect growing conditions for both Grüner Veltliner and Riesling. Markus has been running the estate since 2000 and creates pure, bright, and mineral-driven wines whilst focusing on ecological viticulture, and as such is certified according to the requirements of "sustainable Austria", as well as being organic. Markus has built up a huge following in recent years, and the 2021 was an outstandingly good vintage producing linear, focused, and concentrated wines. His single vineyards (Erste Lage) wines have received the highest scores ever awarded at the estate!

WINE BUYER'S NOTE

Cramele Recaș is a pioneering producer and this Pinot Grigio highlights why there's such a buzz about the Romanian wine at the moment! Bursting with aromas of green apple and pear with underlying touches of grapefruit and white peach flavour. It's zesty acidity makes it fresh, crisp and clean... making you want to come back again and again for another sip! Get off the beaten track and try something new, you won't regret it.

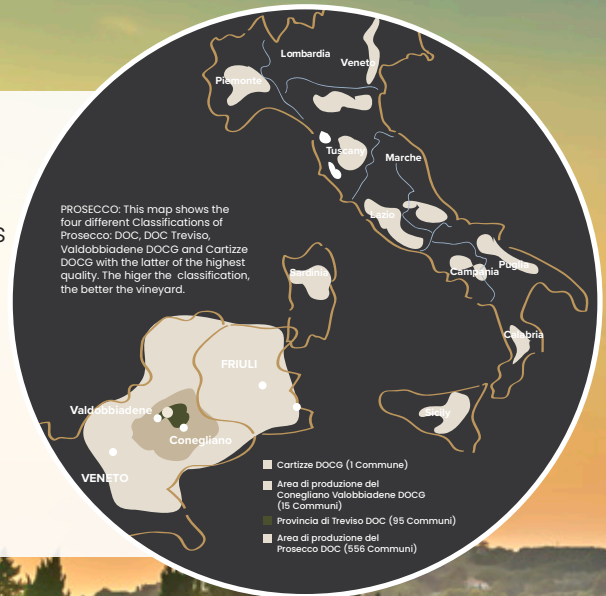

Italy

With hundreds of indigenous grape varieties to choose from, Italy is a wine lover's paradise. From the romantic, mist-shrouded slopes of Piedmont to the flat, sun-baked plains of Puglia as well as the idyllic island of Sicily; Italy is as complex as it is varied. With 20 wine producing regions to choose from, the diversity in terroir and style available throughout the length and breadth of the country is nothing short of impressive.

Re-discover classic varieties such as Nebbiolo, Barbera and Sangiovese as well as exciting newcomers like Nero d'Avola, Vermentino and Grillo. Sparkling, white, red or sweet... Italy really has it all.

NORTHERN

Northern Italy has always been a bastion for great wines, no more so than Piedmont, which is beginning to step out of the shadow of neighbouring France to claim back its crown. Here the Dolcetto, Barbera and Nebbiolo grapes reign supreme, creating powerful, yet perfumed and elegant wines from the villages of Alba, Barbaresco and Barolo. There is plenty of choice in the Veneto too with varying forms of Vapolicella from Ripassa to Amarone as well as Recioto, known as rich and plentiful wines. However, it's not all about reds as fantastic crisp and clean whites can be found from Gavi, Soave and the Veneto too, all offering consistent quality and great value for money.

LA DELFINA – VENETO

Only the highest quality grapes available are sourced to create this market-leading range that offers outstanding varietal typicity and value. The Pinot Grigios are of DOC quality, which ensures lower yields and meticulous winemaking practices.

WINE BUYER'S NOTE

The Baccolo wines are exciting new additions to our portfolio and offer a point of difference if you're looking for something new to try. The white is a blend of Fiano and Sauvignon Blanc from Puglia, whereas the red is a blend of Merlot and Corvina from the Veneto, however, both wines undergo some apassimento (partial drying of grapes) to add complexity and depth. They are seriously delicious and punch well above their weight in terms of value for money.

MABIS BISCARDO – VENETO

Founded by Terenzio Biscardo in 1878, initially Biscardo was established as a Veronese wine trader before they turned their hand to production with Amarone and Recioto wines. Terenzio's son, Luigi, then took over the running of the business and thanks to his hard work and dedication, Biscardo soon became one of the most important producers in the Veneto region. The cutting-edge investments in winemaking and bottling areas lead to new markets opening up, including Italy, USA, England and then the rest of Europe. Today, heirs of the Biscardo family, Maurizio and Martino, run the winery and are following the path of research, quality and innovation.

CENTRAL

Central Italy is, without a doubt, one of the most prestigious winemaking areas in the country that includes famous appellations such as Chianti, Brunello di Montalcino and Bolgheri to name but a few. The Super Tuscan movement has long divided opinion by blending (or sometimes replacing) the indigenous Sangiovese with international varieties such as Cabernet Sauvignon, Cabernet Franc, Merlot, and Syrah. However, the resulting wines are big, bold, and powerful with incredible ageing potential and now proudly take their place on the world’s Fine Wine stage. Nevertheless, do not underestimate Sangiovese, which stakes a solid claim as the noble grape of Tuscany from easy drinking to village specific Chianti as well as vibrant Vino Nobile di Montepulciano and full-bodied blockbusters from Brunello di Montalcino. There are some fantastic white wines made from the local grapes of Pecorino and Vermentino just waiting to be discovered...

VITIS NOSTRA – ABRUZZO

Produced by one of the leading family-owned wineries in Italy, Enoitalia, this is a great example of the balanced and easy-drinking Montepulciano d’Abruzzo grape (not to be confused with Vino Nobile di Montepulciano).

VILARNAU – PENEDÈS

Founded in 2005, Vilarnau is a Cava producer with an innovative philosophy. This is reflected in its intricate, bright and colourful bottle design, which is a nod to the famous Catalan architect Antoni Gaudí and the city of Barcelona. The winery is sleek and state of the art (designed by Catalan Painter and Sculptor, Joan Miró), and the vineyard lies at 250 metres above sea level where it enjoys a Mediterranean climate. Superb for celebrations, this modern Cava is set for a long history.

WINE BUYER'S NOTE

This is a superb Spanish white from high altitude vineyards in Rueda and La Seca. Grapes are picked at night to retain freshness and aromas of lemon, lime as well as white peach and a delicate herbaceous edge. It is so refreshing with loads of energy thanks to its bright, vibrant acidity, core of further citrus and white stone fruits and a precise, linear finish. If you like Sauvignon Blanc and Pinot Grigio, this is a must try!

VALMINOR – RÍAS BAIXAS

Adegas Valminor is located in the valley of O Rosal in Southern Galicia, from which the winery takes its name (Valminor means “minor valley”.) Lying just across the border from Portugal where mild annual temperatures, abundant rainfall, Atlantic Ocean and Miño River influences as well as soils rich in minerals all provide excellent conditions for growing the native Albariño grape. The winery was founded in 1997 and ultra-modern new facilities were quickly built; today the tradition of the wine growers is matched with state of the art technology to produce quality wines with innovative character, racy acidity and wonderful fruit purity.

LUIS CAÑAS – RIOJA

Bodegas Luis Cañas has been at the heart of Rioja since 1928, however, it wasn't until 1970 when its contemporary story begins when they became the first Rioja Alavesa winemaker to bottle his young wine rather than sell it in bulk. This was a bold move at the time yet cemented their position as one of the most progressive in the region. Situated in Villabuena (Rioja Alavesa) and sheltered below the Sierra Cantabria, their vineyards are all old, small plots on chalky-clay soils, where Luis Cañas knows the local climate and terroir inside-out and demonstrates a real sense of pride and dedication of this to create these unique wines.

Tucked away on the shores of the Bay of Biscay in the Basque Country, Donostia-San Sebastián has become the unrivalled Mecca for food and wine lovers. Quite rightly too, there's nobody who takes seasonal, quality produce as seriously as the Basques... so, from perfect pintxo bars to jovial jatetxea and superb sagardotegia, as well as multiple Michelin recommendations, there really is something for everyone to enjoy. Armed with top tips from our little black book on where and what to eat / drink, you'll feel like a true Donostiarra in no time. Goazen!

The best place to start your txikiteo (bar crawl) is in Parte Vieja; the historic old town where the tight, cobbled streets are jam-packed with bustling bars. It's worth noting that pintxos are a unique social, cultural and culinary symbol of the Basque Country, and San Sebastián in particular. They're usually a simple, bite sized morsel though some bars have developed and elevated them into rather lavish, restaurant-worthy dishes too. Often an establishment is known for one specific pintxo, so, it's best to maximise your experience and try as many as possible hence doing a txikiteo.

Where to start? Well, Bar Nestor would be our first port of call for a slice of their legendary tortilla. It's an institution and you need to get there early as they only make two per day.

AN INSIDER'S GUIDE TO SAN SEBASTIÁN

We stress you need to arrive at 12pm for lunch, or 7pm for dinner to pre-order a slice: as there's only 16 portions per tortilla, it's highly sought after. If you miss out, try again tomorrow. Or go all in on the holy trinity of txuletón (rib cut steak), tomato salad, and Padrón peppers. Grab a bottle of Rioja and enjoy with the steak and sides... it's a match made in heaven.

A stone's throw down the street is Casa Urola. The pintxos here are like works of art; sophisticated, elegant, and refined, yet so full of flavour. The pan-fried scallop in ajo blanco or lobster salad on a spoon are to die for, especially when served alongside a saline, mineral Albariño from Galicia. There's an excellent, Michelin-recommended restaurant on the first floor that is worth booking too.

The next stop is just around the corner at Borda Berri and their celebrated risotto. Yes, you read correctly, risotto. Well, of sorts... they've taken this classic Italian dish and put a Basque twist on it by using Orzo pasta and local Idiazabal cheese. It's a true delight; savoury, smoky, and salty... what more could you want? A glass of Rioja Blanco wouldn't go amiss actually!

A quick meander over to Bar Ganbara for one of the simplest, yet most famous dishes in the city: seared seasonal mushrooms and egg yolk (with foie gras if so desired!) The late, great Anthony Bourdain once stated, "there is no better place to eat in Europe than the city of San Sebastián", and we couldn't agree more. This was his all-time favourite dish. It's a rich, savoury, umamithroughout the city, and Rekondo is certainly one of them. Founded in 1964 it's a temple dedicated to Haute Basque cooking; simple regional classics cooked to perfection like txangurro (baked spider crab), rodaballo a la parilla (grilled turbot) and, of course, txuletón (rib steak) to name but a few. However, Rekondo is most well-known for boasting one of Spain's best wine cellars with roughly 100,000 bottles waiting patiently to be plucked from the depths and enjoyed. For wine lovers there is a bible to peruse (literally a 300+ page book) showcasing top estates from all over the world... and look out for some keen prices, as there are some bargains to be had! Hot tip: make sure to show some real enthusiasm, as those who do are sometimes invited down to the cellar for a tour. A visit to San Sebastián is never complete without a reservation here.

Escape the hustle and bustle of the city for the tranquility of the countryside and an experience you'll never forget. The small village of Astigarraga is just a 10-minute taxi ride and is the hub of local cider production. Here the cider houses (known locally as sagardotegia) offer brilliant value set menus of traditional dishes such as croquettes, omelette, cod and peppers, txuletón as well as cheese and membrillo served alongside warm Basque hospitality. The best bit is queuing at the huge wooden vats filled with cider to take your turn in filling your glass direct... and you go back as many times as you want. Without a doubt Astarbe Sagardotegia is well worth a detour. Txotx / cheers!

We hope you enjoy our insider's guide to San Sebastián. Scan the code for more Insider's Guides...

bomb so ask for a glass of Txakoli; a clean, crisp slightly spritzy Basque white wine to refreshen the palate.

A brisk walk into the Centro neighbourhood for Antonio Bar (especially if you missed out on tortilla at Nestor), because this a hot rival for San Sebastián's best! Again, only a few are made each day. Hot tip: why not pre-order as they usually sell out by 11am. Their Igeldo pintxo is delicious too; bread topped with confit tomato, guindilla pepper, tuna belly, anchovy and balsamic vinegar reduction. A taste sensation not to be missed!

There is one pintxo which symbolizes San Sebastián: the Gilda. Simple yet effective and consists of an olive, a guindilla pepper, and an anchovy... salty, spicy, and tangy – it's seriously moreish. There's only one place to enjoy it too, and that's at Casa Vallés, where it was created in the 1940s. As it's a one-bite pintxo, a slurp of traditional local cider is more than enough to whet the whistle.

You might now need a break, so, make your way to La Concha for a well-earned stroll along the seafront before heading back to the old town for a sweet treat. Last, but by no means least is La Viña for the dessert that took the internet by storm: burnt Basque Cheesecake. It all originated here 40 years ago and is still going strong thanks to its light, almost fluffy texture and unique flavour. It's not overtly sweet either, although a drizzle of Pedro Ximenez on top makes an irresistible addition.

There are plenty of excellent restaurants (jatetxea in Basque)

MEET THE WINEMAKER

Agustín Santolaya RODA / LA HORRA

Describe yourself in 3 words:
Vine and wine lover

How did you get started in the wine trade?

I was born in 1960 in a vine-growing and wine producing family from Villamediana de Iregua, La Rioja. I have lived in the vineyard and winery since I was a child.

Provide a brief description of the estates/wineries and vineyards:

Bodegas Roda and Bodegas La Horra combine the beauty and the ability to make wonderful wines. Always within the framework of sustainability and energy efficiency. Two very different wineries, however: RODA is urban, in Haro's Railway Station District in La Rioja whereas Bodegas La Horra, is in the countryside, among the pine forests of La Horra in Ribera del Duero. The vineyards are bush vines and mainly planted with Tempranillo, which captures their wonderful surroundings. They are organically grown and encapsulate each region wonderfully.

Is sustainability something actively employed at the winery?

Absolutely. But not only in sustainability; through geothermal energy, solar energy, underground construction, and sustainable materials. We also implement regenerative viticulture and have been the true driving force behind Key Line as a planting technique to save water, prevent erosion, and create new soils.

Are you implementing any measures in the vineyard or winery to make the winemaking process more environmentally friendly?

Since 2021 all our vineyards have been planted using the Key Line system as mentioned above. This involves planting in such a way that water, which would naturally erode with the resulting soil loss, infiltrates and flows from the slopes to the hills, creating increasingly fertile soil. These planting models bring incredible beauty to the landscape.

We have just opened Bodegas La Horra in Ribera del Duero, where we produce CORIMBO and CORIMBO I. It is one of the most energy-efficient wineries in recent times. It is mostly underground to take advantage of the earth's natural temperature. Natural ventilation is provided using traditional northern chimney systems, known locally as "zarceras". The interior air is cooled with passive systems that introduce hot air accumulated at higher altitudes into the soil and expel cold air at lower altitudes, generating an energy-efficient cooling system.

Can you explain the importance of organic/ biodynamic viticulture?

In our case, we work in both RODA and CORIMBO with organic viticulture, avoiding the use of herbicides, chemical fertilizers, and synthetic phytosanitary products. Respect for the soil, microbiology, wildlife, and, above all, the consumer must be absolute.

Has climate change impacted your winemaking at all?

A lot. Each year we harvest earlier, we plant vineyards at higher altitudes, and we use grape varieties that enhance acidity and freshness like Graciano for example. Within our extensive germplasm bank, we work to select Tempranillo families that better withstand climate change.

How do you know when you have a particularly good vintage on your hands?

Harvests are a true reflection of the landscape they have experienced in each meteorological vintage. By listening to all the messages it sends each day, you already know what wine you are dealing with and how to manage it in the winery.

What is the best vintage that you have made?

At RODA and CORIMBO, there isn't just one star in charge of creating the wines. We're a team of many people who work to ensure the wines are impeccable, and we're sure each of us has some favourite vintages that aren't the same. Since 1992, which was our first RODA vintage, I would choose 2001 and 2021; both are wonderful and very complete.

Do you prefer to make wine in La Rioja or Ribera del Duero?

Both places are magnificent for the Tempranillo variety and very different from each other. I couldn't choose!

What is your favourite restaurant and why?

I have many favourite restaurants, do I need to choose? Variety is the spice of life. But I can recommend several in both regions. In La Rioja, I love Alameda (Fuenmayor) for its wonderful grill work, vegetables, and traditional dishes. Echaurren (Ezcaray), La Venta de Moncalvillo (Daroca) and Nublo (Haro), for their wonderful work in sophistication of products from La Rioja. I like La Vieja Bodega in Casalarreina as well as La Taberna Herrerías in Logroño for capturing traditional Rioja cuisine. In Ribera del Duero, I'd pick two, close to the winery: Nazareno in Roa, with its excellent suckling lamb, and El Viso in Gumiel de Mercado, with its very promising and has a bright future.

Name your desert island dish and paired wine?

Fried eggs and homemade fries with black truffle springs to mind right now, and I would pair it with a RODA I Blanco.

What is your favourite wine and who would you share it with?

One of the most recent: a CIRSION 2021 and I would share it with a wine lover friend willing to chat leisurely.

COLINAS DE SÃO LOURENÇO – BAIRRADA

Colinas de São Lourenço is the Taylor Fladgate's flagship property in Bairrada, located in the small village of São Lourenço do Bairro on the limestone faultline that cuts through the appellation. As a coastal region with a moderate Atlantic climate, the breezes blow in from the sea and mitigate the warm, dry summers and so it is often compared with the world-famous region of Bordeaux. The property has 61-hectares of vineyards planted with both international and native varieties; mainly with Cabernet Sauvignon, Touriga Nacional, Merlot, Petit Verdot, Pinot Noir, Chardonnay, Arinto and Sauvignon Blanc. The vineyards are dry farmed and vines are planted at high density to promote competition, resulting in intense and concentrated wines with a real sense of place.

MEET THE WINEMAKER

João Cabral de Almeida QUINTA DA CALÇADA

Describe yourself in 3 words.

Passionate, dedicated, innovative

How did you get started in the wine trade?

It started at a very young age, and I was influenced by my family. Wine has been a constant in my life for as long as I can remember!

What has surprised you about being a winemaker?

I would say the responsibility in interpreting nature; we are guardians of the vines and try to bottle their character depending on what mother nature provides us through the seasons.

Provide a brief description of the estate/winery and vineyards:

Wines have been made at Quinta da Calçada for over a century. The remarkable extension of vineyards – more than 50 hectares with varying ages that extend to the beginning of the twentieth century – allows us to interpret the different terroirs.

Among these parcels of land, we proudly own heritage of the rich history of Quinta da Calçada. We are talking about a parcel of vineyard that is certified as the oldest in the Vinhos Verdes region – 0.5 hectares of extreme vineyard positioned on a single terrace.

Quinta da Calçada has always asserted itself in the production of quality wines, focusing on the interpretation of terroir wines, specializing in white wines.

What is your winemaking philosophy?

I try to make wines with as little intervention as possible, so they capture a true representation of both grape and terroir. At Quinta da Calçada we have a philosophy of non-intervention and respect for nature.

Who has influenced your winemaking style the most?

Anselmo Mendes; he's a real pioneer. He's done so much to raise the profile of both the Alvarinho grape and the Vinho Verde region.

What goals in winemaking are you still working to achieve?

To continue to make wines that reflect their place of origin as much as possible.

Are you implementing any measures in the vineyard or winery to make the winemaking process more environmentally friendly?

Sustainable grape production and minimal intervention in the winery.

How do you know when you have a particularly good vintage on your hands?

It sounds simple, but when I have little work to do in the vineyard and at harvest!

What is your favourite varietal to work with and why?

Alvarinho because it produces fresh and elegant wines that are a joy to drink young, yet that also have impressive aging potential. It's also the DNA of Vinho Verde and our flagship grape so is emblematic of our history and identity.

If you could do a collaboration with another winemaker or producer, who would it be and why?

Good question! It would be Telmo Rodriguez because he has contributed so much to the wine "revolution" across several Spanish regions.

Name your desert island dish and paired wine?

It must be a traditional dish like Polvo à Lagareiro – baked octopus with smashed potatoes and garlic – served with a refreshing, crisp Loureiro.

What is your favourite wine and who would you share it with?

Something that I have made myself shared with my wife; Beatriz.

Demand for Portuguese wines has increased in recent years, what do you believe has contributed to this?

The new, younger generation is more concerned with making wines with a sense of place, making them unique and interesting.

LEBANON

GREECE

The Levant

Greece is arguably is one of the oldest winemaking countries in the world, albeit not the first country to make wine, it was indeed the Greeks who spread wine culture around the Mediterranean as far as France, Spain and Italy. Despite such a rich heritage, their unique wines have only grown in popularity in recent years thanks to the fusion of ancient tradition and modern-winemaking that highlight native varietals such as Assyrtiko and Vidiano as well as Xinomavro and Kotsifali to show best of this new frontier.

Lebanon also boasts a 6,000 year vinous history, so you'd think that by now that Lebanese winemakers would know what they're doing... and they certainly do regardless of the surprised first reactions of wine drinkers when they learn that Lebanon has a recognised fine wine industry. Indigenous and international varietals thrive in the mountainous landscapes of the Bekaa Valley and Batroun creating rich, round whites and full-bodied, robust reds that are well worth discovering.

THE LEVANT

LYRARAKIS – GREECE

The Lyrarakis estate is a family vineyard and winery which has been producing high quality wines since 1966. It is located to the south of the city of Herakloin in the Alagni commune (Crete), where Myriam Ambuzer oversees winemaking and focuses on native varieties such as Assyrtiko and Vidiano as well as Kotsifali to produce precise, pure, and fruit-forward wines with a real sense of place.

CHÂTEAU MUSAR – LEBANON

Wine has been produced for 6,000 years in Lebanon but it was Château Musar that put Lebanese wine on the map. Château Musar was also the first producer in Lebanon to achieve organic certification for its vineyards. Most are located in the Bekaa Valley, cradled between two mountain ranges running parallel to Lebanon's Mediterranean coastline.

IXSIR – LEBANON

The name IXSIR derives from 'Iksir', the Arabic term for 'Elixir', a word common to many languages that defines the purest form of all substances. The vision behind IXSIR is to showcase the best terroirs in Lebanon, many of which have been long forgotten. Cultivated with respect to sustainable agriculture, IXSIR's vineyards are spread throughout the Lebanese mountains on clay-calcareous and limestone soil, from Batroun to Jezzine, benefiting from the unique microclimates Lebanon has to offer.

WINE BUYER'S NOTE

Lebanon has been making wines for thousands of years and you'd be forgiven to think that grapes couldn't survive the baking heat of the midday sun! However, they can and even more so, they thrive in some of the highest mountain vineyards in the northern hemisphere. The result of the Grande Reserve Red is an abundance of dark black fruit with chocolate and spice undertones. It's worth noting that Bordeaux maestro, Hubert de Boüard, of Château Angélus fame is consultant and helps produce this exciting wine well-worth discovering!

Australia

It should come as no surprise that due to Australia's size; it is one of the most diverse wine making countries in the world. From the lush and green forests of Margaret River to the rolling hills of the Barossa Valley and even the coastal ruggedness of Tasmania, the country boasts a vast range of climatic conditions, soil types and geographical landscapes.

From bold and powerful reds to creamy, complex whites and sticky sweets, Australia is bursting with hidden gems just waiting to be discovered.

MEET THE WINEMAKER

Keeda Zilm HESKETH WINES / VICKERY

How did you get started in the wine trade?

I grew up in the southeast of South Australia, and at that time, Kingston S.E. was part of the emerging Mount Benson wine region. I guess I always knew I wanted to work in agriculture. In 1999, I travelled to Europe for the first time, and I was captivated by the wine culture and the traditions of the 'old world'. That experience sparked something in me, and oenology quickly became the natural choice. The University of Adelaide—home of the renowned wine course—was an easy decision. Now, 25 years later, I'm grateful to enjoy a rewarding and fulfilling career in the wine industry.

What has surprised you about being a winemaker?

It's a diverse field, yet very focused. Everything we do is deliberate—from planting a selected clone of a specific variety in just the right spot, to varying row orientation block by block, all the way through to harvest timing and yeast selection. We make so many decisions, especially during harvest, and they come quickly. But the investment of time and thought is rewarded when we see those decisions come to life in beautiful wines we can enjoy. I don't know if I really knew when I started out in 2003, that the role would be like this. And I love it!

What goals in winemaking are you still working to achieve?

The focus has always been, and will continue to be, the true expression of place with a strong emphasis on sustainability. We need to embrace this fully and execute it well. My goal is to continue working closely with our team and growers in particular to ensure that our industry remains sustainable—especially environmentally. We have a huge responsibility to protect and nurture this for generations to come.

What are the most rewarding things about your job?

Community—the wine community—is vast and varied, and everyone plays a vital role. The lead-up to harvest is intense, and we rely on many dedicated people, all united by a love of wine. We have committed growers, hardworking cellar teams, marketing crews, and loyal customers. I love telling the stories of their involvement and giving credit where it's due. Wine isn't made by just one person in a winery: it's a collaborative effort. We share those stories every time we share a bottle.

Who has influenced your winemaking style the most?

I've been fortunate to work alongside some exceptional winemakers, and I believe asking the right questions and focusing on quality are essential to growth. While much of my experience has been in the Clare Valley, I've also gained valuable insights from time spent in Oregon and Burgundy. More recently, I had the privilege of working with John Vickery, whose winemaking philosophies continue to influence my approach every day.

How do you know when you have a particularly good vintage on your hands?

Early on—earlier than most might expect—we start spending more time in the vineyards, monitoring every aspect of vine maturation and development after flowering. We can make important quality assessments once 'fruit set' is complete; it's all about balance and the overall health of the vine. Of course, climate and weather events play a big role, but we do have some control through picking decisions and canopy management, which significantly impact overall quality. Are you asking about V26? A little early.

Has climate change impacted your winemaking?

Sustainability in the Australian wine industry is increasingly vital as producers confront climate challenges and evolving consumer expectations. Key strategies include adopting lightweight glass bottles, implementing regenerative farming, using on-site bottling lines to minimize transportation emissions, and optimising water and energy use through technologies like solar power and efficient irrigation systems. Programs such as Sustainable Winegrowing Australia, of which we are members, provide a framework for continuous improvement, supporting environmental, social, and economic sustainability across the industry.

If you could do a collaboration with another winemaker or producer, who would it be and why?

Let's get the Uni. girls back together! All graduates of the University of Adelaide's 2003 oenology course, Heather Mackley from Pike Road in Oregon, Nadine Worley from Fugitive in New Zealand, three women, three regions, and one shared commitment to site-driven, expressive wines. From Pinot in Oregon to vibrant aromatics in New Zealand and Clare Valley whites.

What's the most interesting topic/trend in the wine industry at the moment?

One of the most interesting trends in the wine industry is the growing emphasis on environmental sustainability and consumer transparency. More wineries are adopting sustainable, organic, and biodynamic practices—not just as a marketing tool, but as a genuine commitment to protect the land and combat climate change. Consumers today want to know where their wine comes from, how it's made, and its environmental impact. This demand for authenticity, ethical production, and reduced carbon footprint is driving innovation across viticulture and winemaking, including water conservation, renewable energy use, and minimal intervention techniques. At the same time, consumers are increasingly focused on health and wellness, seeking wines with lower alcohol, natural ingredients, and clean labels. Together, these trends reflect a shift toward more responsible, mindful wine production and consumption.

New Zealand

New Zealand is a tale of two islands where vineyards on both sides naturally enjoy a maritime climate. The cool nights and sea breezes help to produce high quality grapes with balanced acidity and great purity of fruit.

There is an impressive range of grape varieties now grown in New Zealand including classics such as Sauvignon Blanc, Chardonnay and Pinot Noir. However, there are some producers pushing boundaries and have started to successfully grow Riesling and Pinot Gris as well as Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot and Tempranillo. The majority of wine regions are found on the East coast of both islands such as Hawke's Bay, Martinborough, Marlborough and Otago, which are all protected by the Southern Alps mountain range.

MAHI – MARLBOROUGH

Mahi is situated in Marlborough on the north-eastern corner of the South Island of New Zealand. Established by Brian and Nicola Bicknell in 2001, in 2006 they purchased the historic winery giving Mahi a home and a sense of place. The name Mahi means "our work, our craft" and it was chosen to show that wine is their work, passion, and craft while also paying respect to the history of the land and the Maori people. The main aim of Mahi is to highlight the quality and diversity of individual vineyard sites in Marlborough. As such, they source grapes from over eight different vineyard sites across the region having sought out the right sites, planted with the right varieties combined with a primary focus on texture and fruit purity; offering true palate satisfaction with elegant and sophisticated wines.

PEGASUS BAY – CANTERBURY

The story of Pegasus Bay starts with the history of the Donaldson family and Ivan Donaldson, a consultant neurologist and associate professor, who became interested in the art of winemaking. It started when Christine, his then girlfriend, handed him a book named Wine, written by Hugh Johnson, that started Ivan on an exciting journey that has never ceased. After a trip across Europe's most renowned wine regions, he returned to Canterbury married Christine, and founded Pegasus Bay in the 1970s... the rest as they say, is history. The estate is still proudly family owned and the focus has always been on quality; old vines with low yields to produce concentrated and intense wines that won't disappoint.

MEET THE WINEMAKER

Brian Bicknell MAHI

Describe yourself in 3 words

Enthusiastic, positive, passionate.

What has surprised you as a winemaker?

Probably just how natural the process of wine is. When reading, then studying, about winemaking there was a lot of essential information on the technology of winemaking, and I ate that up, but it took me a few years to realise that the best wines we will ever share will be wines made in a very 'hands-off' fashion, focussing on a great vineyard and getting involved as little as possible.

Provide a brief description of the estate/winery and vineyards:

We started Mahi back in 2001 aiming to make single-vineyard wines in a 'hands-off' fashion, to show the variations within Marlborough. This focus hasn't changed, and we make eight different single-vineyard wines now, all hand-picked, wild, high solids etc., Our vineyards are all in the cooler western end of the Wairau Valley as we are looking for citric characters and elegant acidity. We also make a Marlborough range that looks to show the 'essence' of Marlborough, but with a twist. We lease some vineyard, own a bit and then work with some great growers, many from 2003 and 2006, so we know their sites well.

Is sustainability something actively employed at the winery?

Sustainability is a key for so many reasons, with the main one being that we've worked with the same vineyards for over 20 years, so we want that vineyard to get better rather than exhausting it by taking high crops or destroying the soils. At the winery all that can be recycled is, we minimise inputs and consider sustainability in all our packaging and business operations.

Are you implementing any measures in the vineyard or winery to make the winemaking process more environmentally friendly?

Yes, we are part of the SWINZ programme in New Zealand which is a brilliant system, and we spread all of the skins back into the vineyard so some of the nutrients taken with the grapes are replenished. We also work with some organic and biodynamic vineyards, especially on some of the clay soils.

Who has influenced your winemaking style the most?

Probably Michael Brajkovich at Kumeu River as way back in 1991 I asked him two of the most boring questions regarding his Chardonnay, being: what temperature do you ferment at, and what yeast do you use? I had just finished at Roseworthy College so was very technical and when he said he didn't control temperature and used wild yeast this just blew my mind. I had organised a Chardonnay tasting the next week and had a bottle of Domaine Leflaive and it all sort of fell into place and I have been doing wild-yeast uncontrolled ferments ever since!

What is one of the most rewarding things about your job?

It is going to sound sickening but there are so many parts that I enjoy in my 'job'. Probably the key one is that I love that we make wine that really speaks of us, our team, the vineyard and the vintage. To be able to be involved at every stage of the process, from the determination of your winemaking ethos, through vineyard management and siting, to harvest decisions, then winery work, then blending, is so very special. Our wines embody us in a way and so when you go to show these wines to great restaurants and retailers, and then see bottles being enjoyed at the table it is hugely satisfying. The money isn't good, but it is an amazing life!

What's the most interesting topic/trend in the wine industry at the moment?

I do think regenerative agriculture will continue to grow but I think one trend that I have really enjoyed of late is that there is now an acceptance of a wider range of wine styles. There is real interest in the various aspects of wine, including the growing of the grapes, which is a real positive.

What is your favourite restaurant and why?

Restaurant le Lion d'Or in Arcins, Bordeaux. Maybe not my 'favourite' restaurant but one that I had an incredible experience in, and looking back over great dining experiences, this rates right up there. I did the 1989 vintage in Bordeaux, which is cep mushroom season, and we dined there one night having cep omelettes. The food and place were great, but the key was that most of the tables were filled with winery owners, and they would leave their unfinished bottles on their tables at the end of the meal. What I loved was that the sommelier/chef would then drop them on our table so we could taste/drink them. Some stunning older wines but it was the atmosphere, people, 'feel' and wines that made for a memorable experience!

Name your desert island dish and paired wine?

A little predictable but I do love duck and Pinot Noir, especially if savoury/earthy elements like mushrooms are involved also. Slow cooked duck matched with Roumier's Chambolle-Musigny would work rather well!

South Africa

The hub of South Africa's wine production takes place in South-Western flank of the country known as the Western Cape. Here many regions bask in a Mediterranean climate with long, warm and sunny summers which are tempered by a cooling wind known as the 'Cape Doctor'.

From Franschhoek to Stellenbosch and Hemel-en-Aarde, the mountainous slopes and valleys are perfect for both grape growing and producing high quality wines. The country is mainly known for its iconic grape Pinotage (a Pinot Noir-Cinsault cross), however, great examples of Sauvignon Blanc, Chardonnay, Cabernet Sauvignon and Merlot are waiting to be discovered. South Africa offers some of the best value wines available in the southern hemisphere.

Chile & Argentina

ARGENTINA

CHILE

It's all about the Andes when it comes to climate and terroir in South America. The high-altitude vineyards of Mendoza in Argentina find the perfect balance between hot days and cool evenings to fully ripen grapes, whereas vines on the steep slopes in Colchagua Valley are tempered by the Arctic winds of the Humboldt Current. As a result of these unique conditions the wines are fresh, clean and fruit driven. Argentina's most famous grape without doubt is Malbec, however, don't be afraid to try Cabernet Sauvignon or give Torrontés a go.

If you want to be adventurous then cross the border into Chile and try their Sauvignon Blanc, Viognier, Carménère and Pinot Noir wines, they should not be missed!

BON COEUR / LUIS FELIPE EDWARDS – CENTRAL VALLEY, CHILE

This range is a collaboration of two families; renowned Chilean winemaker Luis Felipe Edwards and award winning UK wine merchant Bon Coeur; a tribute to 500 years Chilean winemaking. Hand selected by James Goodhart Founder of Bon Coeur, for their quality and true reflection of the finest Chile has to offer. Produced by Luis Felipe Edwards at the family winery in Colchagua, embracing the very latest techniques to produce exceptional wines from carefully tended vines grown in Chile's very best sites.

CARO (LAFITE ROTHSCHILD) – MENDOZA, ARGENTINA

Bodegas Caro is a co-venture between Domaines Barons de Rothschild (Lafite) and Nicolas Catena's Argentinian winery. One of the top priorities for Domaines Barons de Rothschild (Lafite) and the Catena family was to select the finest terroir to enhance the alliance between Malbec and Cabernet Sauvignon. The plots of vines come from within the Catena family's own vineyards and are supplemented with grapes from other top vineyards in Mendoza, known for the high quality of their fruit, and in particular, old vine Malbec.

WINE BUYER'S NOTE

Grapes are sourced from several parcels of historic rows in both Adrianna vineyard in Gualtallary and Domingo vineyard in Tupungato. Alta means "high" in Spanish and is a reference to the vineyards altitudes of 1,120-1,450m, combined with expert winemaking has resulted in a rounded, rich, and complex, yet balanced and pure Chardonnay. It boasts wonderful aromas and flavours of lemon and grapefruit citrus with a touch of mango fused with gently-integrated toasted oak spice.

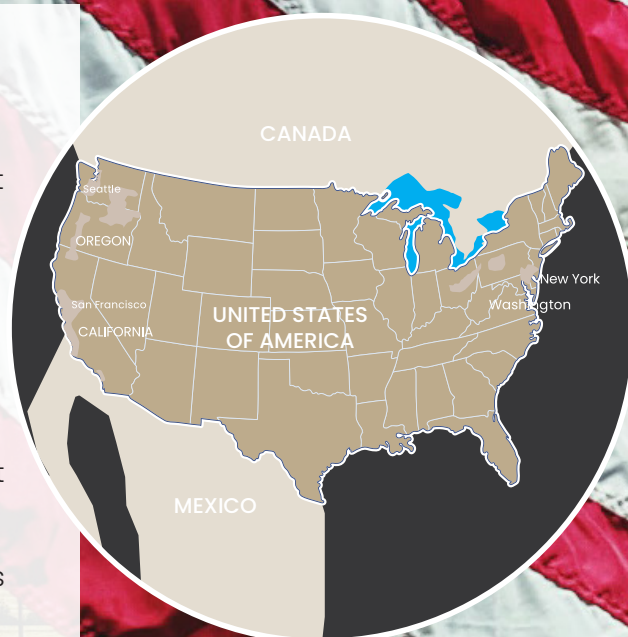

USA

USA

The world's fourth largest wine producer, the United States has a wine history dating back to the 1600s, when colonisation began in earnest. More or less every state produces wine, however, mostly in tiny proportions. Over 95% of the output is restricted to just four states: California, Oregon, Washington and New York. California then produces about 80% of that output, making it far and away the capital of wine in the United States.

There are a plethora of grapes to choose from with regulations being more lenient than other countries, though the intense, creamy Chardonnays of California are the most famous white export. Amongst the red wines, loud and proud Zinfandel is California's statement wine, along with Cabernet Sauvignon, which relishes the warm California sunshine as well as riper, more fleshy and rounded styles of Pinot Noir.

L.A. White Zinfandel Rosé NV

PORTRAITS OF AMERICA – LODI

Portraits of America is a range of classic Californian wines captured in classic and contemporary American art themes. Grapes are selected from old vines throughout the region of central California, recognised for its unique and distinctive quality Zinfandel, which are lightly crushed and then vinified in stainless steel. This an exciting new addition; a White Zinfandel Rosé that ticks all the boxes!

SHADOW POINT – MONTEREY COUNTY

Shadow Point comes from vineyards in California's Monterey County in the Central Coast region which sit next to a chain of hills separating the vineyards from the Pacific coast. The name Shadow Point relates to the shadows which form over the vineyard as the setting sun falls in the west, behind the neighbouring hills. Every aspect is overseen by the watchful eye of winemaker Samantha Bailey; a trailblazer with an esteemed palate and decades experience that culminate in crafting the best wines possible from The Golden State.

MEET THE WINEMAKER

Jerónimo da Valle SHANNON FAMILY OF WINES

Describe yourself in 3 words.

Passionate, dedicated, cheerful.

How did you get started in the wine trade?

I actually wanted to study medicine, but when I was 16 years old, I visited a winery, and it completely changed my mind. I discovered that winemaking is the perfect combination of science and art, a place where innovation, creativity, technical knowledge, and teamwork all play an important role. I fell in love with the idea of creating a product that's meant to accompany special moments and is deeply linked to enjoyment. Wine is a product that brings people together, celebrates happiness, and adds meaning to life's best moments.

What is the most rewarding thing about your job?

The most rewarding thing is seeing people truly enjoy the wine we make. It's amazing how a bottle of wine can create connections and moments that bring people together, no matter where they are in the world. Sharing our wines means sharing our story and our place and that exchange of experiences across cultures is something really special.

What has surprised you as a winemaker?

How every year can be so different, no matter how much experience you have. Nature always has the final word, and it keeps you humble. What really surprises me is how much you learn from each vintage and how the wine keeps evolving in the bottle, sometimes in ways you didn't expect. It's a reminder that winemaking is never just routine; it's always alive.

Provide a brief description of the estate/ winery and vineyards:

Shannon Family of Wines is located in Lake County, California, where our vineyards span rolling hills at high elevations with volcanic soils. We farm organically across hundreds of acres and are deeply committed to regenerative practices that protect the land for future generations. The diverse microclimates and clean mountain air help us craft wines with purity, freshness, and true varietal character.

What is your winemaking philosophy?

My philosophy is to make honest wines that truly reflect the vineyard, the vintage, and the people behind them. I believe in minimal intervention, careful observation, and letting the fruit speak for itself. I'm very focused on the details, for me, paying close attention at every step and maintaining strict sanitization in the winery are essential. Cleanliness plays a huge role in protecting the integrity of the wine and ensuring its purest expression.

Can you explain how working in a mindful way is important in your vineyard and winery?

Working mindfully means paying attention to every detail, from canopy management and harvest timing to cellar hygiene and team well-being. It's about being intentional and present, so that the final wine is a true, thoughtful expression of its origin.

Sustainability is becoming more important for consumers, is this something actively employed at the winery?

Absolutely. Sustainability is at the heart of everything we do at Shannon Family of Wines. We farm organically and are proud to practice regenerative agriculture, which goes beyond sustainability by actively rebuilding soil health, promoting biodiversity, and protecting local wildlife habitats. We also use cover crops, composting, and water conservation techniques to ensure our vineyard ecosystem thrives.

Has climate change impacted your winemaking?

Definitely. Shifting weather patterns affect ripening, disease pressure, and picking decisions. It has made us more agile and thoughtful about adapting techniques to preserve quality and balance in the wines.

Are you implementing any measures in the vineyard or winery to make the winemaking process more environmentally friendly?

Yes, in addition to our organic and regenerative farming, we're always looking for innovative ways to close the loop. For example, at Shannon Family of Wines, we've created a worm farm where we recycle our winery's wastewater, and the pomace produced during harvest. The worms break down the pomace and the wastewater, creating a nutrient-rich "tea" that we then use through our vineyard irrigation system. This natural fertilizer nourishes the vines while allowing us to reuse wastewater in a sustainable way. It's one more way we give back to the land that gives us so much.

What is your favorite varietal to work with and why?

Malbec, not only because I'm Argentinean, but also because I've found that here in Lake County it can show similar characteristics to the Malbec I know and love from Argentina. It's exciting for me to work with this varietal and be able to represent my culture and heritage here in California. It feels like bringing a piece of home into my wines.

If you could make a wine anywhere else in the world, where would it be and why?

I would love to make wine in Tuscany, which is where my family comes from. It would be a way to connect with my roots and honor that part of my heritage. Working with a classic Tuscan varietal like Sangiovese (in the heart of Chianti) would be amazing. I think it would be a beautiful experience to craft wines in a region with so much tradition, culture, and passion for wine.

If you could do a collaboration with another winemaker or producer, who would it be and why?

I'm already lucky to collaborate every day with someone I truly admire, my wife, Carolina, who is the Head Winemaker at Shannon Family of Wines. But if I could choose to work with someone else, it would be Paul Hobbs. He's a legendary winemaker known for his deep understanding of how to craft wines that truly express place and character. I admire his balance of precision and creativity, and I think working alongside him would be an incredible chance to learn and explore new styles, techniques, and ways to make wines that inspire people around the world.

SHERRY

Sherry is made in the southern Spanish region of Andalucía, where the villages of Jerez de la Frontera, El Puerto de Santa María and Sanlúcar de Barrameda are affectionately known as the 'Sherry triangle'. The three key grapes; Palomino Fino, Moscatel and Pedro Ximénez produce a vast range of styles from bone dry Fino and Manzanilla, to complex Oloroso and Palo Cortado as well as deliciously sweet Pedro Ximénez. There is so much more waiting to be discovered than the bottle of Sherry tucked away in Granny's cupboard for Christmas!

	Inspired by the good old days when Fino would be consumed directly from cask, González Byass re-introduced in 2009 and have pioneered the En Rama style, the purest expression of the vine and the winery, of origin and ageing. Each year is a selection of the very best casks all hand-selected by Master Blender and Head Winemaker, Antonio Flores each contributing to the character of the final blend. The wine has an average age of about 5 years and is untamed, unfiltered, en rama. Best served with Iberico ham or Perelló olives.

	The most popular Fino and with good reason. A minimum of 5 years ageing in the Solera system provides zingy flavours of lemons, green olives and a linear saline touch. Excellent as an aperitif with traditional Spanish tapas such as nuts, olives as well as jamón.
	González Byass 'Leonor' Palo Cortado Seco (75cl)	£19.17	£23.00	20%
	Referred to it as the "wild child of Jerez" by Master Blender and Head Winemaker, Antonio Flores, due to its mysterious ageing process from a full 12 years barrel maturation. A deliciously dry Sherry that is best described as having the nose of an Amontillado, and the palate of an Oloroso with an abundance of bitter orange, caramel, toffee and hazelnut. Serve with Manchego as well as Spanish cold cuts such as Chorizo or Cecina.
	González Byass 'Viña AB' Amontillado (75cl)	£16.25	£19.50	16.5%
	The best of both worlds as this Sherry is aged initially under flor, and then aged in controlled conditions for 12 years in American Oak. A dry Amontillado with hints of yeast and bread as well as further complex flavours of caramel, hazelnut and butterscotch.
	González Byass 'Alfonso' Oloroso Seco (75cl)	£16.67	£20.00	18%
	A dry and clean Oloroso with fragrant aromas of walnut and hazelnut as well as added leather and truffle notes due to 8 years ageing in American Oak. Best served chilled with cured meats, braised pork cheek or even a rich oxtail stew.
	González Byass 'Nectar' Pedro Ximénez (75cl)	£18.33	£22.00	15%
	As the name implies, this is a sweet style of Sherry made from 100% Pedro Ximénez. Smooth and velvety texture with luscious flavours of prunes, figs and dates. A wonderful accompaniment to sweet desserts and chocolate.
	González Byass 'Apostóles' (37.5cl)	£25.83	£31.00	20%
	A Palo Cortado from the VORS range, made from 87% Palomino and 13% Pedro Ximénez. The two grapes are aged for 12 years in oak casks separately, and then blended together for a further 18 years ageing. It is similar to Amontillado in style, yet with more complex and intense flavours of dried fruit, candied orange peel and toasted nuts. A great alternative to Sauternes with foie gras.
	González Byass 'Matusalem' (37.5cl)	£25.83	£31.00	20.5%
	A sweet Oloroso VORS made from 75% Palomino Fino and 25% Pedro Ximénez. After 30 years ageing, it has layers of incredibly complex flavours including spices, nuts, figs, and dried fruit. Enjoy with Christmas pudding, it's a match made in heaven.
	González Byass 'Noé' (37.5cl)	£25.83	£31.00	15.5%
	A full-flavoured and intensely sweet style of VORS. This is one of the world's rarest wines, which is the epitome of pure indulgence with notes of figs, raisins, and coffee with underlying cinnamon spice. Pour over vanilla ice cream or try with dark bitter chocolate.

PORT

Port is a fortified wine produced in the northern region of the Douro, Portugal. The majority of vineyards are located roughly 50 miles inland from the city of Porto in the Cima Corgo, Baixo Corgo and Douro Superior sub-regions. Port can be made from a blend of more than 80 permitted grapes, however, the main varieties for red wine are Touriga Franca, Touriga Nacional, Tinta Roriz, Tinta Barroca as well as Tinta Cão and for white wine Malvasia Fina and Gouveio. The grapes are crushed by foot in traditional stone lagares, which gently releases colour, tannin and flavour. Port can vary dramatically in style from clean and crisp White to nutty Tawny, fruity Reserve and Late Bottled Vintage as well as the powerful and most sought after, Vintage Port.

TAWNY

Tawny Ports undertake extensive ageing periods in wooden casks, exposing them to gentle and controlled oxidation. As a result, they gradually mellow to a golden-brown colour and develop complex and concentrated flavours of nuts, dried fruit, coffee and caramel. There are two styles of Tawny; a house style blend of recent vintages with no specific indication of age known as 'fine' or 'basic' Tawny, as well as older wines bottled and labelled as 10, 20, 30 and 40-year-old.

Single Quinta Vintage Ports are produced from a Port house's finest single estate or 'quinta' from one specific year (that is not a declaration). They are made in a very similar way to Vintage Port; where ageing takes place for 2-3 years in oak casks, followed by at least 10-15 years ageing in bottle. Single Quinta Vintage Port are usually more approachable and offer good value for money. As they are bottled with their sediment, they need to be decanted before drinking.

BRÄNNLAND – SWEDEN

Founded in 2010, Brännland Cider produces exceptional artisanal ice cider from a combination of orchards in Sweden; the winter apples are hand-picked in both their home county of Västerbotten on the Baltic seaboard, as well as from a specific, carefully selected grower in the heart of the Swedish apple country in the south. The production method is exactly the same as for ice wine, whereby apples are frozen during the depths of winter and thus concentrating the natural sugars and then in the Spring cider must is extracted (between 35-40 Brix), which is fermented slowly to create a wonderful, sweet yet balanced ice cider.

MEET THE DISTILLER

Joe Clark

SPIRIT OF YORKSHIRE DISTILLERY

Describe yourself in 3 words.

Living & breathing whisky

How did you get started in the spirits trade?

I was very lucky to land a job at a whisky specialist in York back in 2006 and work with a fantastic team of people that I'm very fortunate to still call friends to this day. This was the first stepping stone into the incredible world of whisky. Over a five-year period of learning and tasting hundreds of different whiskies, they collectively helped me realise that something I was very passionate about could be an actual career.

Provide a brief description of the distillery:

Farmers, brewers, and distillers. Our distillery was founded by third-generation barley farmer Tom Mellor and his good friend David Thompson to make light, fruity and world-class single malt whisky from 100% homegrown barley. Mentored by world-renowned whisky expert Dr Jim Swan, our first casks were laid down in June 2016, and in 2019, we launched Yorkshire's first single malt whisky. Since then, we have grown our range, and we now have our whisky available across 13 different export markets: Europe, the US, and Japan, as well as over 400 stockists in the UK.

Every drop of whisky we make is from barley we have grown on the Yorkshire coast, and our entire production process takes place within the stretch of land called Filey Bay. We can see the bay from our distillery windows, hence the name Filey Bay for our whisky. Where we are from is very important to us.

Is sustainability something actively employed at the distillery?

For us, making whisky sustainably and farming regeneratively makes sense on every level, both commercially and ethically. The farm underpins everything we do, and the long-term health of the land and soil has to be safeguarded for future generations. Sustainability is absolutely one of our core values.

Are you implementing any measures on the farm or distillery to make the distilling process more environmentally friendly?

On the base of our bottle, we have the words 'Proudly Made of Yorkshire'. We have Yorkshire manufacturers and suppliers for our glass, labels and cartons. In terms of food miles, we have to be amongst the lowest in our industry. Wherever we can, we do our bit. We even compost all the used coffee grounds from our coffee shop at the distillery.

What is your distilling philosophy?

Flavour first, always.

Which whisky figure do you admire in the industry?

I have a huge amount of respect for the late Duncan McGillivray of Bruichladdich; he held that distillery together with pure will and grit for a very long time before and after its rebirth.

Who has influenced your distilling style the most?

Without doubt, Dr Jim Swan. He was our mentor while setting up the distillery and was with us until he passed away in 2017. His influence in our process is still very strong; he taught us to nose and taste our way through our middle cut, and it's how we still do it today. His legacy in our industry is very far-reaching.

What goals in distilling are you still working to achieve?

When making whisky, you always have to be thinking many years ahead. We're approaching our 10th year of production in 2026, and we're working towards a 10-year-old release to celebrate. Beyond this, one day, 20, 30, and 40-year-old whisky will exist from our distillery, and there will be people drinking and enjoying it; it would be nice if I'm one of them. Despite 9 years of production, in whisky terms, we're really just getting started.

What is one of the most rewarding things about your job?

Meeting customers and people who enjoy drinking the whisky that takes us so long to make is always really brilliant. But one thing that never gets old is when you take the bung out of a cask that you hammered in many years ago, and you let the whisky rush out. At that moment, you see the reward of diligent effort and patience. You see how oak and the passing of time have completely transformed the clear spirit you filled into that cask, all those years ago, into delicious whisky that people will enjoy. That is always rewarding.

If you had to recommend only one of your whiskies to a customer, which would it be, and why?

If you've never tried our whisky before, our core whisky, Filey Bay Flagship, is the best place to start. It scooped up an IWSC gold medal in the 2025 competition and is the best example of our distillery character. However, if you're looking for something a bit different, I would recommend our Filey Bay IPA Finish is one of the most unique whiskies we release. As farmers, brewers and distillers, we have a lot of fun barrel ageing beers and then using the freshly emptied ex-IPA casks to further mature our whisky. The results we are getting are stunning, and unless you have a farm, a brewery and a distillery, you can't make a whisky quite like this.

What's the most interesting topic/trend in the industry at the moment?

After several years and a huge, combined effort from the English Whisky Guild and all member distilleries, the GI (Graphical Indicator) for English single malt whisky was submitted to DEFRA. It's very close now, and it's been a huge piece of work to define the production of English single malt whisky. As a category, right now, the quality benchmark is set very high, and we're proud to be a part of it. The English whisky industry is growing each year, and the GI is a very positive step forward to protect the quality and consumers. It had a lot of column inches in early 2025 after being submitted.
